Collector's Transfer Completed

BENTON — A committee overseeing the transfer of the Scott county collector's office from former collector Aubrey Michael to successor Tom Marshall has completed its duties.

The committee, is composed of Mrs. Elcie Streeter, a representative of Michael, Les Lankford, a representative of County Clerk Phil Waldman, and representatives of Michael's bonding companies, has turned over to Waldman the final figures on December tax collections by Michael's office.

Figures indicate a shortage of about $45,780 for December.

Waldman also disclosed the committee found an estimated $7,000 in receipt records missing from the office. These assessments are in the tax books but there are no receipt records of them in the office. Waldman said records indicate these taxes are not paid.

The office will be open Monday through Friday for persons to pay current taxes without penalty. Waldman said this decision by the county court was made because of the inconvenience caused by the closing of the office.

Michael resigned Jan. 6. The office has been closed since.

A list of persons on the unpaid list has been compiled and will be turned over to Prosecuting Attorney Tom Gilmore. These taxpayers will be contacted and if they have receipts showing their taxes have been paid, the amount will be subtracted from the estimated amount of shortages for December.

Paid tax receipts in the office show about $2,016.000. was collected in December. Waldman said the committee calculated that the $45,000 shortage equals slightly more than and two and one- quarter per cent of total collections and this percentage has been deducted from the totals to be paid government divisions when Marshall assumes his duties.

As an example, the Sikeston R-6 school district is entitled to about $785,000 from December collections. The portion of the $45,000. shortage applicable to Sikeston R-6 is about $18,000. This will be deducted and instead of the Sikeston district getting $785,000, it will receive $766,000.

Michael is bonded for shortages.

RECORDS FROM THE COLLECTOR'S office are being turned over to County Clerk Phil Waldman by two members of a committee chosen to prepare the office records for new collector Tom Marshall. From left, are Waldman, and committee members, Mrs. Elcie Streeter and Les Lankford.

House Upholds President's Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's veto of the $19.7 billion health-education money bill was upheld today as the House rejected an effort to override it.

The vote was 226 to 191. It was 52 votes short of the two-thirds needed to override.

The result was a solid victory for Nixon in his sharpest confrontation yet with the Democratic controlled Congress. The President said a veto was necessary because the $1.26 billion which Congress added to the bill for health and education programs was inflationary.

The over-all bill finances the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare, and various antipoverty programs.

A new bill will now have to be written and it is likely the Democratic majority will again try to put in more money than Nixon has budgeted, although not as much as in the vetoed bill.

The Democrats, in trying to override the veto, said inflationfighting cuts can be made in other programs but more money is needed to meet the nation's education and health problems.

Just before the vote, two Republican leaders put forward a possible compromise that would permit Congress to stand by the increased funding but let Nixon refuse to spend more than he wanted to.

It was also reported that the White House is prepared to approve increases over Nixon's budget totaling $848 million instead of the $1.26 billion added in the vetoed bill.

Rep. Albert H. Quie, R-Minn., said he received today a White House letter to be read to Congress assuring that Nixon would put $440 million, instead of the $202 million he had budgeted into the program for aid to school districts that include large numbers of federal employes.

Quie told newsmen that, although it is not mentioned in the letter, he had also been assured that Nixon would approve an additional $70 million for vocational education and $140 million for other programs. Thus the total package would be $448 million over Nixon's budget instead of the $1.26 billion provided in the vetoed bill.

Another alternative, approval of the full amount of the figures in the bill but a provision letting Nixon decide how much would be spent, was proposed by Reps. John Rhodes, R-Ariz., and Robert H. Michel, R-Ill.

Nixon, in vetoing the bill, told the nation Monday the $1.2 billion more than he requested in the measure was inflationary. He took special aim at $600 million for the impact aid when he said the measure provided "the wrong amount for the wrong purpose and at the wrong time."

The President originally proposed $202 million for the impacted aid.

Republican congressmen went into the vote torn between loyalty to the GOP president and pressure from home for the health and education funds as provided in the $19.7 billion measure. School officials said he veto could cause havoc and health authorities warned research programs would be crippled.

This was the first time in a decade for Congress to attempt to override a presidential veto. In 1960 the legislators overwhelmingly approved a 7½ per cent federal pay raise bill after President Dwight D. Eisenhower had rejected it.

Hubert H. Humphrey, who was a Democratic senator at the time of that vote, said Tuesday night in Philadelphia that he hoped Congress would be able to upset the Nixon veto. The former vice president and Nixon's opponent in 1968, said he didn't think the bill had anything to do with inflation.

Senate Republicans watched today's vote closely, hoping the House would sustain the veto and thus save them the agony of voting on it.

Sikeston Wins Contest Citation

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The continuous community betterment efforts of Sikeston have merited an honorable mention in the 1969 National Clean-Up contest in which the city competed with others of under 25,000 population from across the country. The contest is sponsored annually by the National Clean Up- Paint Up-Fix Up Bureau.

A member of the city's delegation to the 1970 National Congress on Beautification in Washington, D.C. will be presented the specially designed, framed certificate Feb. 24.

The city's scrapbook entry also has been chosen to be placed on display during the Feb. 22-24 Congress.

During the past year the people of Sikeston showed their enthusiastic cooperation in a broad and balanced community betterment program, which was graphically illustrated in the city's scrapbook entry. Contest judges were impressed with the commercial and residential property improvements and the strong emphasis given to youth participation in this outstanding civic improvement effort. Awareness was generated for the 1969 campaign by extensive newspaper and radio publicity.

James Beaird, president of the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce, said "This is something all of the people in Sikeston can be proud of. It just goes to show Sikeston continues to move ahead."

Hearing Slated on Open Air Burning

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Air Conservation Commission will conduct a public hearing in Jefferson City Feb. 26 to hear complaints and suggestions about a proposed regulation on open burning in out-state Missouri.

An earlier hearing, 18 months ago, produced a good deal of opposition and since then the posed rules have been modified, the commission's executive secretary, Harvey D. Shell, said Tuesday.

The regulations will not apply in the portion of the state where stricter regulations are already in effect, including:

The St. Louis city area, encompassing St. Louis city and the Missouri counties of St. Louis, Jefferson and St. Charles.

The Kansas City area, including the Missouri counties of Jackson, Cass, Ray, Clay and Platte.

The counties of Buchanan in northwestern Missouri and Greene in southwestern Missouri.

Under the proposed regulations these limitations on open burning would stand out:

Cities of less than 10,000 population would have two years to turn to some other form of disposing of refuse besides open burning, possibly an approved form of incineration or direct landfill.

Cities of more than 10,000 population would have only one year to make the change.

Householders could burn refuse in backyard incinerators, burn leaves in the fall and continue to have outside barbecues.

Tree stumps, tree limbs and land clearing fires would be permitted if not within 200 yards of an occupied dwelling.

Campfires and ceremonial bonfires would be permitted.

Shell said he hoped to get the reaction of sawmill operators and cotton ginners at the hearing. They did not appear at the earlier session.

Revenue Director Confirmed

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Senate today confirmed James E. Schaffner of Jefferson City as the new state revenue director along with 62 other appointees of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

James E. Riney of Hannibal also was approved as chairman of the State Tax Commission.

There has been considerable criticizm of the Revenue Department in the legislature but not a single question was asked of Schaffner when he appeared before a Senate committee Tuesday to be presented for confirmation.

He was appointed revenue director last July 1 to succeed Thomas A. David, now administrator of the Highway Commission. Schaffner has pledged an effort to put the department on a businesslike basis. He formerly was state purchasing agent.

Riney succeeds Hunter Phillips of Kansas City, who resigned to tend to his personal business. Like Phillips, Riney told a committee Tuesday he thought all counties should get their assessments up to a uniform 30 per cent of actual value.

Most of the appointments confirmed today were on state regulatory boards and commissions. Those who could not appear on short notice for committee questioning will be reappoined by the governor on an interim basis.

Other major appointees con-t firmed today included:

W. C. Banta of Charleston, reappointed to the Board of Education.

Marshall was sworn in by County Clerk Phil Waldman. Michael's term runs until March 1, 1971.

Conferees Agree to Keep Water, Prison Outlays

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A House - Senate conference committee agreed today to retain a $6 million emergency allotment for state aid to water pollution control projects and also $500,000 for a start on a maximum security prison.

The quick agreement by the conference committee could make it possible for the special legislative session to end later today.

House Appropriations Chairman E. J. (Lucky) Cantrell, D-Overland, said he accepted the $6 million figure water pollution control because the money couldn't possibly all be allocated before June 30, the end of this fiscal year.

His action scotched a plan already afoot to block his attempt to ask for a House-Senate conference. Veteran Rep. Thomas A. Walsh, D-St. Louis, was all set to ask that the water pollution change be accepted by the House.

But when Cantrell acceded on that point the House agreed to delay final adjournment so other changes made by the Senate in the appropriations bill could be looked at.

Cantrell said the Senate made 18 changes and he thought the House could accept some of them if they were explained in conference.

As recommended by the governor, the bill contained a little over $21 million in general revenue tax money. The House cut that to $13.6 million but Tuesday the Senate expanded the total to $20.5 million.

Named to the conference committee to adjust differences on the appropriation bill were Reps. Cantrell, Walsh, William F. Casey, D-Posoti; Charles H. Dickey, D-Mexico, and William C. Phelps, R-Kansas City.

Senate conferees include appropriations chairman T. D. Mc Neal, D-St. Louis, and Sens. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville; Nelson B. Tinnin, D-Hornersville; Omer H. Avery, D-Troy, and Edward Stone Jr., R-Chesterfield.

The water pollution board asked Gov. Warren E. Hearnes to recommend that amount. He declined but did insert the request without his support in his emergency budget.

The House Appropriations Committee and the House sided with the governor and rejected the item, despite pleas from the Water Pollution Board that it would mean a big loss in the state's efforts to clean up its streams.

The Senate committee also rejected it but it was approved, 22-10, on the Senate floor.

Under present federal regulations if the local government comes up with 20 per cent of a project's cost and the state supplies 25 per cent, the federal allotment will make up the other 55 per cent.

Another change the Senate made in the House version was to give the Department of Corrections $500,000 to provide the basic start on a maximum security prison estimated to cost an overall $7.3 million.

The House had approved only $60,000 for extra guards to keep tighter control over hard core inmates prison authorities feel should be in a maximum security institution. The Senate accepted the $60,000 allotment but specified it should be for guards, psychologists and psychiatrists.

The House will receive from the Senate a resolution setting April 7 as the date for a special referendum election on the income tax hike law.

The differences over appropriations and passage of the resolution could delay the end of this special session of the legislature until Thursday or possibly into next week. The session began Jan. 19.

GOP Dinner Moves to Arena

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A $100-a plate Republican fund-raising dinner to be addressed by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew will be held Feb. 10 at the St. Louis Arena instead of a hotel, dinner chairman Donald W. Douglas Jr. announced Tuesday.

Officials of the St. Louis Labor Council, AFL-CIO, had urged its member unions to picket the dinner at Stouffer's Riverfront Inn because the hotel's employes are not represented by a union. The Carpenters Union said it would station pickets at the hotel.

"Even though the legality of the threatened picket line is disputed," Douglas said, "there is no arguing the fact that there is a dispute ... between Stouffer's and the union, or unions."

A Stouffer's spokesman said its employes voted against union representation in a Nov. 7 election supervised by the National Labor Relations Board and contends the unions are barred from further organizing activity for one year following the election.

Douglas said Stouffer's was chosen because its ballroom can seat 2,000 persons. No other hotel in the city has a comparable facility.

"We booked the dinner with Stouffer's with no knowledge of a union problem," he added.

British Troops Head off March

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — British troops with fixed bayonets headed off a Protestant march on a Roman Catholic section of Belfast early today as angry chanting crowds roamed the streets for the fourth night in a row.

The upsurge of tension brought fears of a revival of the religious warfare in which more than 20 persons were killed and hundreds injured last year.

Shortly after midnight a mob of about 500 Protestants tried to charge the "peace line" of barbed wire and steel between the Protestant Shankill Road section and the Catholic Falls Road area.

They were met by a line of troops with bayonets fixed and wearing gas masks, apparently ready to use tear gas for the first time since armed clashes last October. The mob retreated.

The British army garrison in Northern Ireland, which is part of the United Kingdom, has been reduced to 6,000 men. Army officers say this is enough to handle riots but probably not enough to cope with a guerrilla war.

Two Arrested On Assault Charge

Johnnie Lee (Bobbie) Harris, 307 Alabama St., and George Parr, Bertrand, were arrested yesterday by police on a charge of assault and battery.

Also booked yesterday by police were Roy J. Tidwell, Sikeston, and Daniel L. Sugg, 118 4th, for driving while intoxicated; Mira Preslar, Poplar Bluff, for public intoxication; and William Harold Huggins, 109 N. Handy, for peace distrubance.

Given a summons to appear in city court today for the same offense were Alzela Johnson, 17, and Leora Long, 19, both of Charleston.

$201 Stolen By Silent Burglar

PORTAGEVILLE — A Negro man wearing a white mask, tan jacket, and blue trousers entered the DeLisle Package Store at 10 p.m. last night with a small caliber pistol pointed at Attendant Bill Cameron.

Neither said a word as the robber went behind the counter, took $201 from the cash register, and walked out the front door.

Cameron said he didn't see or hear a car.

Fire Destroys Bell City Home

BELL CITY — Firemen went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. William (Bud) Surface at 9:30 a.m. today to combat a blaze at the four- room frame house.

The house was destroyed. Some clothing and furniture was saved.

The fire was believed to have started from a gas stove in the kitchen.

Cars Damaged

Monday at 5:30 p.m. at the Homestead Distributing Co. parking lot, a 1963 Ford driven by Lois M. Callow, 39, Sikeston, was hit by a 1969 Chevrolet driven by Pamela Kay Westmoreland, 23, 115 North Handy, police reported.

The Ford was damaged on the right rear fender and bumper. The Chevrolet was damaged on the right rear fender, tail light, and bumper.

Yablonski Case Developments Reported

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sources close to the Yablonski family slaying investigation said today three hired gunmen killed the United Mine Workers official and his wife and daughter, and that a fourth man who backed out of the assignment was in custody.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer, in a copyright story in today's editions, said the killers were promised $1,700 apiece. The story added that the triple slaying stemmed from "a personal beef" not connected with union matters.

Charles G. Cusick, agent in charge of the Cleveland FBI office, answered all questions about the report with, "No comment."

Other developments reported by the Plain Dealer and other sources:

—Navy deep-sea divers found a .38-caliber pistol Tuesday in the Monongahela River about five miles from the Clarksville, Pa., home where Joseph A. Yablonski, 59, his wife, Margaret, 57, and daughter, Charlotte Joanne, 25, were slain.

—FBI agents extended their investigation into the Kentucky and Tennessee coal mine fields where Yablonski, a rebel leader in the UMW was a household name among miners.

—In Cleveland, U.S. Attorney Robert B. Krupansky said a grand jury investigation into the slayings, which opened Tuesday, probably would be extended through next week.

—The Plain Dealer reported that "all the information gathered led authorities to conclude the deaths were 'a hit' or hired killing."

Three men have been charged with murder in the slayings. They are Paul E. Gilly, 36, Claude E. Vealey, 26, and Aubran W. Martin, 21, all of the Cleveland area.

Reporting that its information had been pieced together from various sources, the Plain Dealer gave this account:

Yablonski's home had been visited several times before the killings. On one trip the slayers entered the house when the family was absent and made friends with the family dog, and on another occasion two of the men confronted Yablonski at the door, intending to kill him then, but changed their minds. The Yablonskis were slain in their bedrooms Dec. 31. The bodies were not found until Jan. 5.

The night of the slaying, the men entered the Yablonski home, one with a .38-caliber pistol assigned to the daughter's bedroom and another with a 30 caliber M1 carbine to fire from the hallway into the parents' bedroom.

A few miles from the house they threw the carbine and pistol into the Monongahela River.

"The men later consoled themselves, 'It would be a big splash in the Clarksville paper and blow over in a couple of days.'" the Plain Dealer said.

Gilly's wife, Annette, and two of the victim's sons, Joseph Jr. and Kenneth, were among those who testified at the grand jury hearings Tuesday.

Krupansky refused to comment on testimony taken at the opening session or on the developments reported by the Plain Dealer.

Yablonski lost a bitter Dec. 6 election attempt to unseat UMW President W. A. "Tony" Boyle.

Investigators have said that none of those charged in the slayings had union connections.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Other excuses have been pretty well exhausted when people attribute the error of their ways to hypnotic influence someone is exerting over them.

WELCOME, DR. BURNS * * *

At the recent 32nd Annual dinner of the Tax Foundation, Inc., Dr. Arthur F. Burns was presented with the Foundation's "Award For Distinguished Public Service." Since Dr. Burns has just been appointed to the extremely sensitive job as Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, we find his brief remarks on that occasion most interesting.

It is not surprising that the speaker should note the fantastic escalation of our national budget ... which, in the last nine years, has doubled the amount reached in the two previous centuries of our country; from $100 billion in 1962, to a threatened $200 billion - mark for the fiscal year 1971.

It is significant, however, that Chairman Burns took pains to point out that the huge increases in federal spending are not due to defense and war costs - a charge constantly implied by the Doves, Peaceniks, and anti-Vietnam demonstrators. Rather, Dr. Burns pointed out, our defense costs account for only $23 billion of the $74 billion increase in the Federal budget since 1964. Going back to the end of the Korean War in 1953, he said, our defense outlays have accounted for only one- sixth of the vast increases in local, state, and federal expenditures.

"This fiscal year, programs for education, manpower, health, income security, housing, community development and crime prevention will cost over $80 billion - a sum that exceeds all spending by the Federal government in the peak year of the Korean War," Dr. Burns declared. Contradicting the anguished cries by some lobbyists that "we are not doing enough for the poor", Dr. Burns said that Federal aid to the poor alone will cost $27 billion this year, in contrast to $12 billion in 1964, and that grants in aid to states and localities will cost about $25 billion, in contrast to $15 billion in 1967, $10 billion in 1964, and $5 billion in 1958.

Chairman Burns conclusion: "It seems hardly prudent to contemplate any further increase in the level of taxation."

Good for Dr. Burns. Now how about our congressmen and senators, who have the power to increase - or decrease- our tax load? Have you written to one of them recently?

THE RUGGED REALISM OF WINTER

Winter's art is a thing of line and form, without ornamentation. It is bare branches against the sky, shrubs and tall grasses rising in graceful shapes or dark masses, carpets of leaves and grass drained of color, and bare, weathered earth awaiting the spring.

The low limbs of the American elm reach out horizontally across the law, as if groping for the hand of a friend. Poplars, standing in formal line, lift thin arms toward heaven. The irregular branching of redbuds and ginkgos seems uncertain in which direction it wishes to grow. Those gnarled patriarchs, the red oaks, show knotty muscles. Mimosa and paradise trees, without their long compound leaves, are grotesque shapes, hard and unyielding against winter's winds. The willow, in contrast, bends long and graceful branches toward the soil which supports it.

Instead of bundling against the winter, trees and shrubs discard the leaves which will serve them no more, but which can blanket roots and enrich the soil. Winter is, in nature, a time of facing realities and waiting for better days.

The scene is spare, like a traditional Japanese drawing; a composition of line and form. As an artistic expression, it has much in common with the haiku, the 17- syllable Japanese poem, also thin and spare and cast in a traditional pattern.

Spring will bring ornamentation and color, with leaves and flowers. But these will grow on the framework prepared in the past, as the painter adds color to forms previously sketched (unless he is one of those who "paints" by throwing pigments on a canvas and spreading them with tennis shoes and bicycle tires).

It has been said that color is in the eye of the beholder; and so it is, scientifically as well as emotionally. But form and line are specifics; they are underlying realities. And because of this, they are the appropriate art of winter.

Winter is a time of facing up to realities, to the basic challenges in life. For most human beings it is less so today than it was in the past, when families stood on their own resources against cold and snow, and depended on themselves for food when gardens and orchards and fields were bare. Still, winter has enough of illness and other difficulties to test us, even today.

And we all have our own times of trial, our winters of discontent. These may not be connected to nature's seasons, but they call for the same sort of response that the world of nature makes to physical winter -a pulling in to basic resources, to cope with basic realities.

LAW AND (DIS)ORDER

As with many other areas in the United States, the Nation's Capital has experienced a shocking rise in crime. Many suburban area residents avoid going into the District at night for fear of their personal safety. Bank robberies and murder are commonplace. Many small businessmen have closed their doors after being "hit" by not one, but continual holdups. Rapes and other serious crimes have been committed in broad daylight.

Serious efforts are now being made by law enforcement officials and concerned citizens to crack down on crime. The drive has the active support of all sorts of groups - civic, social, church, and business. One Washington commercial radio station has been strongly backing pending legislation calling for a mandatory prison sentence for anyone using a gun in the commission of a crime. An Episcopal minister has called for sterilization of convicted rapists.

Strangely, however, strong resistance to these and other anti-crime proposals has been coming from so-called "liberals," in Congress and out. "Gun control" advocates who want to restrict or remove firearms from everyone, have failed to support measures to remove guns from criminals.

Recently, an ad- hoc citizen's group to combat crime invited the District police chief and a representative from the U.S. Attorney General's office to address a meeting called to discuss the crime problem. The meeting was disrupted by a screaming band of "ladies" calling themselves the "WITCHES" - the Women's International Terrorist Conspiracy from Hell. Dressed in weird costumes, they proceeded to attack the speakers with catcalls and epithets, sprinkled with a generous portion of foul and unprintable language. "Facists pigs" was one of their milder outcries. It is noteworthy that one of the shouted slogans of the invaders as "Stop prosecuting the Chicago Eight." The "eight," of course, are the extremist "new left" radicals now on trial for allegedly conspiring to riot against the democratic convention in 1968.

The "liberals" have also leaped, with moral and financial support, to the defense of the "Black Panthers" whose members are currently on trial in courts across the land, charged with any number of violent crimes.

But, since the "liberals" have in the past supported the criminal acts of Stalin, Ho Chi Minh, Vo Giap and others, and have similarly supported the Communist criminal invasion and prosecution of such lands as Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, and South Vietnam, it logically follows that these self- same "liberals" should come to the defense of criminal elements in the United States today.

ANTI-HERO BRODY

The really amazing thing about the bizarre Michael Brody Jr. affair is that so many people actually believed he was going to give away his fortune.

Brody admitted he got the idea when he was "tripped out on drugs."

Crowds flocked around Brody, pleading for his money and then called him names when he didn't shower them with bills. It served their money-hungry hearts right that some of the checks Brody wrote are still bouncing around the East Coast somewhere.

Brody reportedly met his wife - to - be when she came to his rented $80,000 house in Scarsdale to sell him some hashish. She confided that she and Michael have been taking hashish, LSD and amphetamines for several years.

We're not really sure why this story got so much coverage but it seems that the dopier and more insane a person behaves these days the more quotable he becomes.

Perhaps this is another manifestation of the seemingly endless search today for "antiheroes." These modern-day "sad sacks" usually are taking dope, and like Brody they are trying (without much success) to stop.

It is pretty anti-heroic stuff - enough to nauseate just about anyone.

NEW YORK (AP) — Have you had an identity crisis lately?

Well, if not then you don't belong with the real swinging set.

An identity crisis occurs when someone who knew for sure, or thought he did, who or what he was suddenly becomes a stranger to himself. The affliction has become as common in these confusing times as the common cold.

When you are gripped by an identity crisis, you become pitifully indecisive.

In the morning you stare in the mirror at the face you are shaving and question, "Is that really me, or some imposter who has stolen inside the real me?"

Although undergoing an identity crisis is personally unnerving, it is somewhat like having a baby: it gains you a lot of respect from others. They feel that if a dullard such as you can have an identity crisis surely a smart person such as they can have an even bigger and better one.

If you become bored with your identity crisis, you can always find out who you are by a process of eliminating other possibilities.

Such as:

You couldn't be a porcupine, because you're not that touchy.

You couldn't be a cat, because you've never had kittens.

You couldn't be a lion, because nobody runs when you roar.

You couldn't be a bird, because you have a striking lack of feathers.

You couldn't be a tree, because you've never worn a nest of robins in your hair.

You couldn't be spinach, because too many people like you.

You couldn't be a jet plane, a bus, or a train, because nobody rides you except your boss.

You couldn't be money, because you are not a medium of exchange and a measure of value.

You couldn't be a member of Congress, because it's your wife who makes all the speeches and you who do all the listening.

You couldn't be a television performer, because you are not repeatedly interrupted by commercials.

Step by step as you find out who you couldn't possibly be, you become excitingly closer to the discovery of who you must be.

Your identity crisis is finally over when you look at your bank statement. It says there very clearly who you are. You are number Z12-0034-615—that's who you are.

Good old Z12-0034-615! The digits ring in your ears happily as you repeat them over and over. You wonder how a guy identified Z12-0034-615 could ever have forgotten who he was. Who would really want to be anyone else in the world?

Before he could stop himself, the nervous young man blurted out, "I guess I'm a rat, sir - I did it last night!"

There was a time when critics of the competitive system of distribution pointed to advertising as an economic waste. Very few such critics remain today.

It is readily apparent even to the layman that the larger advertisers move goods from the factory to the consumer at less expense. The quick demand created by advertising reduces costs at every stage of distribution. The proof can be found in the accounting of manufacturers and retailers.

A more recent clue to the economic value of advertising can be seen in new attitudes in socialist countries such as Russia and Poland. The socialist economists belatedly concluded that the worst waste of all was non- consumption. The result has been the birth of competitive promotion among stated owned factories.

While the Russians have decided that it is socially desirable to cause people to want better things, some of our critics still question the social effects of advertising. But an opposite view seems sound:

C. W. Cook, Chairman of General Foods Corporation, has stated that "it is natural for Americans to want to live better than their grandfathers, just as people all over the world would like to do."

Mr. Cook believes that the benefits of advertising are social as well as economic: "Advertising not only makes people want, it also helps them get.

"The products and services promoted by advertising are a driving force which motivates us to work and to seek advancement in order to enjoy more and more of them. The attractive goods and services made known to us by advertising help to make us productive servants of our modern society.

Railroads in 1968 maintained a comfortable lead over truckers and airlines in military freight haulage.

Figures released by the Military Traffic Management Service show a total fiscal 1968 bill of $599.1 million for commodities shipped in the U.S. on Department of Defense bills of lading.

Of this total, $296.9 million went for rail shipments, $249.3 million for motor - carrier shipments and $14.4 million for air shipments. Corresponding figures for 1967 were $254.6 million for rails, $226.1 million for motor carriers and $14.2 million for air.

LONGSHOREMEN VS. COMMUNISTS

Recently, Thomas Gleason, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, and John Bowers, executive vice president of the same association, were called to the State Department for a meeting with Emory Swank, deputy to the Assistant Secretary of State for European Affairs.

The purpose of the meeting was to convince the longshoremen to load and unload Soviet passenger ships which would dock in New York City if they could get assurances that the longshoremen would cooperate.

The association had steadfastly refused to handle Soviet ships. When ex - premier Nikita Khrushchev visited the United States, his ship had to use improvised piers because the longshoremen picketed in tugboats.

If the longshoremen agreed, the way would be opened for Soviet entry into all harbors along the Atlantic and Gulf Coast. This would be of great benefit to the communists and would lead to expanded East - West trade.

Bowers told Mr. Swank: "If you want to move our people, get the Soviets to break down that wall in Berlin, or have them use their influence to convince the Hanoi government to begin releasing American prisoners of war... otherwise you're just wasting your time."

Bowers later spelled out a specific formula: For each Soviet ship to be unloaded, Hanoi would have to release at least five prisoners of war. Without some such concessions by the communists, the longshoremen intend to stand firm in their refusal to aid our sworn enemy.

If their example were only followed by those who make our foreign policy, the United States would be a truly effective champion of freedom in the world today. HLH

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON -- A bombshell report, held back by the American Public Health Association, accuses federal and local authorities alike of practicing "health brutality" against the poor.

This column has obtained a copy of the unreleased report, whose grim findings should be read by every concerned citizen.

"We are shocked and still reeling," begins the report by the association's president and immediate past president, Paul Cornely and Lester Breslow, both famed public health physicians.

In Houston, the space age city with renowned heart transplant facilities, the Cornely - Breslow team found neither space nor heart for Mexican - Americans.

The Houston authorities, in anticipation of the team's visit to the worst slum area, attempted a hasty clean - up and even ordered a rare garbage pick - up. But they could not hide the stooped, 59 - year - old grandmother who had lost four of 12 children to malnutrition - induced diarrhea. Nor could they drive away the snakes and rats which prey on babies there.

--POISONING PEOPLE --

In Tulare County, Calif., poor whites and Mexican - Americans, too proud to go on relief, told of staggering in the fields as spray planes illegally spewed pesticides on their heads. Some 200 workers are felled or sickened each year despite laws against spraying DDT and other poisons where people are working.

"I took the number of the plane and told the foreman. Nothing happened," said one worker. Another added wearily: "What's the use? They don't stop spraying."

Washington, D.C., with its shaded avenues and curving shorelines, is the nation's pride. But in the serene Potomac River, which gently washes Washington's shores, the doctors found "dead fish, floating sewage, rotting plant life...more than 400 million gallons of partially treated or raw sewage a day."

Untreated defecation, deadly salmonella and other disease debris are eaten by fish that swim up and down the Potomac and far beyond. Indeed, Dr. Werner Janssen, a scientist at the Chemical Biological Warfare Center of Ft. Detrick, Md., warned the team that the fish were like secret time bombs spreading "the human disease - producing organisms...to areas thought to be safe."

The report blames federal and local governments, along with land developers, for despoiling and poisoning such rivers as the Potomac.

In Chicago, Mayor Richard Daley's health commissioner snubbed the two distinguished presidents of the American Public Health Association. But they went down into the city's ghettos anyway.

--ROT IN CHICAGO--

There they found, a few minutes from the mulit - million dollar towers of the Windy City, "an unforgettable profile of destitution, deprivation...children amid rotting garbage and trash."

A Negro woman could not get repair of her abdominal surgery because she couldn't repay 11 pints of blood to a Cook County hospital. Another watched her baby die an angonized death for three hours while waiting treatment in the emergency room. Of every 1,000 children born, 45 die as babies in one area.

The most embittering chapter in the lengthy report dealth with the truly "forgotten man"-- the Indian who leaves the reservation to make his way on the outside but who winds up in a redman's ghetto.

In Great Falls, Mont., the doctors discovered "Hill 57" -- so named because there are "57 varieties" of tincans and junk on its side. There, 15 large families have a single water faucet.

Across town, 12 Indian families live on a hill used as a trash pile by local residents. One World War II veteran supports his wife and six children by scavanging for auto parts in the hillside junk. He earns $2 on a good day.

Nine years ago, a major cancer operation opened his bowles. He has no time for the surgery to close the, because of his family's pressing needs. The family's sole "utility" is a privy 50 feet from his shack.

A nearby industry refuses to let the impoverished Indians use its water line, so water must be delivered at a high cost to the residents when the old cistern is broken.

Of all the cities the doctors visited, Atlanta seemed to be trying the hardest. Even there, they found a four - by eight cell without ventilation, for the treatment of alcoholics. Its sole occupant was an alcoholic epileptic picked up as he tried to make it to a hospital.

--POLITICIANS, DOCTORS BLAMED --

The two doctors, seasoned men who have seen many horrors in their lives, end their report with almost a shreik of anguish: "Who is to blame in this degradation of life and health?"

They draw their answer from a community doctor, who replied fiercely: "First, the political structure and city hall. Second, organized medicine with its platitudes. And third, the health care system.

"If any should think that we present an exaggerated picture," declare the doctors, "let him spend as we did a few full days actually looking, listening and smelling...Health care for the poor has broken down. The crisis is not coming, it is here."

Their recommendations: revamping medicaid, establishing poverty clinics, letting young physicians work with the poor as an alternative to military duty -- and, of course, federal outlays.

Ironically, President Nixon is now seeking to trim down the $19.7 billion appropriation for Health, Education, and Welfare. Some of the money would go into just such efforts as the report seeks.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

FAKED FIGURES?

Cost of Living Index Hiked With Cost Of Maids, New Cars, Whiskey, Boats, Cigars, Steaks.

New York: — The cost of candor may be brickbats and blasphemy but it's about time someone talked candidly of the deviling cost of living -- otherwise known as the cost- of- living index.

I do believe a good deal of it is spurious, fallacious and facetious. Officially it is called the Consumer Price Index. It should be called the consumer appetite index. This index is far more than a measuring device. It is the arbitrary creation of some old New Dealers who got into the U.S. Labor Dept. when it was difficult to find work anywhere else.

It doesn't measure. It stimulates. It is artifically ballooned. Then it is used as the basis for wage negotiations and to pump up costs and then prices.

Now it is even being used by a powerful New York City teamsters union of garbage collectors to smash the whole system of labor- management contracts.

We'll get back to this new teamsters offensive, but first should come to the first x-raying of the mysterious Consumer Price Index. It does not measure the increasing cost of necessities. It does not measure merely the cost of living comfortably. It measures the cost of living fairly high on the hog. It measures what any objective analyst must call the cost of luxuries.

So it goes higher and higher as it also measures the cost of buying more than is necessary, meaning quantity; and the cost of buying more than traditionally staple items, meaning quality.

Into the so- called cost- of - living index now go the following: New cars, whiskey, wines, fillets, porterhouse steaks, TV- radio- hi- fi combinations, tape recorders, sports equipment, recreation including indoor movies, bowling, music lessons, comic books, hunting licenses, boats, photographic equipment, good used cars, restaurant meals, taxis, steamships, planes, hotels, motels, cigars, parking and garage rents.

There are cost lines, for example, not only or doctors, but for psychiatrists.

Not only legal services are averaged, which could be a necessity, but also banking services.

There are listings for vegetables, bread and milk, but why include between- meal snacks?

And then there are the "housekeeping services." Note this: Include in the cost- of - living index are maids and baby- sitters. This is an era of millions of young marriages. So one can understand including the cost of baby- sitters. But why maids? In my proletarian days my mother handed me a mop and a wet rag and we could eat off the floor (when we had the food) by the time we finished cleaning.

And then there are the autos. These go into the cost of living. Well, everybody is entitled to a car, maybe two cars. But why include this in the consumer price index? And why include super models? Why include foreign models?

And so it goes, up and up. The cost- of- living index is worked into union contracts through a cost- of- living clause which says that employes shall receive extra pay when the index rises above a certain percentage in a fixed period. In the auto industry this means scores of millions of dollars. Thus the cost of cars goes up and this in turn tugs at the index which goes up and around and around we go.

Now along comes the Uniformed Sanitationmen's Assn. led by the imaginative, pipe- smoking John J. DeLury, and says that it wants to reopen its contract with the city. The contract does not have a reopening clause. And the contract has no cost- of- living clause. But, says Mr. DeLury, the cost of living has gone up and we want more money to watch it, contract or no contract, 1972 termination date or no termination date. As muscle, the men are threatening to refuse to work overtime which would leave the city laden with garbage.

New Yorkers and the nation, labor leaders and businessmen, and even sophisticated observers are overlooking the potential for national chaos if the garbage collectors here succeed.

They are using the cost- of- living index, supposedly a rise of 8.7 per cent since they signed their pact, as an excuse for seeking to break it. This always has an emotional appeal. It sounds as though bread and milk were among the missing on kitchen tables. But if this cost- of - consumer appetites can be used to smash open a contract which still has a year to run, such contracts are useless. Fire fighters could insist on reopenings with a demand for special pay for rolling out on false alarms, or in a bid for new equipment. Police could demand special anti- riot pay.

The Sanitation men's union itself has a word for arduous work -- "strenuosity." They could shout for reopenings to use this "strenuosity." If they win on this, they can move on any other items. So around and around this would go. Not only with fire fighters and police but with teachers and other city employes who have no cost- of - living clause in their contracts.

The obvious implications are there. In New York City the cost of an 8.7 per cent cost- of - living increase for 65,000 teachers would run some $90 million.

Thus there could really be no such thing as a contract with fixed costs. There would be no termination date. No definite working conditions which could not be changed at the first outcry.

No city or business could budget itself. This is the time for candor before a lot more than the cost of living gets out of hand.

All Teen-Agers Think About Sex...With or Without Mom's Approval

Dear Ann Landers: I am still boiling over that woman who raced her kids to the paper every day to see if your column was fit for them to read. She said she would cancel her subscription to the paper if you printed one more dirty letter. I'll bet anything she is fighting against sex education in public schools, too.

A girl I know has a mother like that. If she says the word "boy" in the house she gets grounded for three days. Of course, she is meeting guys in garages and parks and on street corners, just to get even with her ma. And she's putting out to everybody. What do these mothers think they are accomplishing when they hide your column? Don't they know every normal teen - ager thinks about sex? Your column tells them how they OUGHT to think about it. Do these mothers believe if they tell their kids to forget about sex that they will? How come they don't remember how it was when THEY were teen -agers?

That dumb mother doesn't realize you are doing HER job. She should thank her lucky stars you are able to communicate with her teen - agers. Kids listen to you and respect you. For sure that mother is out in left field without a glove.

I hope you don't let letters like that get to you. Please keep on writing your column, Ann. We need you-- Tampa Teen.

Dear Teen: Letters like that don't bother me, because for every one of THOSE, I get 20 like yours. I intend to keep at it as long as my typewriter holds up -- and I've got a very fine electric machine which is virtually indestructible.

Dear Ann Landers: I am getting so fed up on office solicitation I'm ready to scream. For the third time in seven weeks, I've been asked to chip in for a going - away gift. The girls are not getting married, or even leaving town. They are quitting to take other jobs.

Our office manager has been here 17 years. She is wonderfully efficient, has a beautiful disposition and is loved by everyone. Someone should take up the collection for HER -- not the dames who quit to make $7 more a week somewhere else.

I told the last person who approached me for a going - away gift donation, "Sorry,no." It was easy. Others should try it. - Omaha

Dear O.: Here's your letter. And for those who can't say "Sorry,no," as easily as you, I suggest they clip this column and hand it to the next collector.

Dear Ann Landers: This is no big deal, but I'd like your opinion. When my cousin visited me recently, she brought along a record album which belonged to one of her friends. She said her friend didn't know she had "borrowed" the album so we had to be extra careful with it. When my cousin left, she forgot to take the album.

A few weeks later I was taking the record to my cousin and it got a little warped form being accidentally left on the car seat which was parked in the sun.

Now my cousin says I owe her $5.00. I say she is responsible for the record. What do you say? -- Judy and Lisa

Dear J and L: You both sound like a couple of dollies to me. Split the cost of the record and forget it.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin

Planning Meeting For Child Care Center

NEW MADRID - Persons interested in the New Madrid community child care center are requested to attend at 8 p.m. Thursday at O'Bannon school, 201 Pinnell street, the Rev. Wally Ellinger, chairman of the executive committee announced today.

Planning For Summer Weather

NEW YORK—(NEA)—For today's active women who seek a versatile wardrobe and prefer natural adaptable styles, a new sportswear house brings the bold and vibrant qualities of Scandinavia to America. Kirsti combines the fabrics of Finland with American design expertise and creates a variety of daytime and swimwear fashions ideal for sport and leisure.

From start to finish, the accent is upon free and easy living and the diversified selection of fabrics, colors and styles makes springtime fun a carefree, full-time activity.

Finland's textile ingenuity has made the summerweight quality fabrics of chiffon velour, texturized nylon and cotton knit breezily worry-proof. Soft, flexible and durable, they're just right for the active traveling life of today's young people. All are machine-washable and have been treated for soil resistance.

The Land of the Midnight Sun is brought to America in bold Scandinavian colors—solids and stripes of brilliant sun yellow, sunset red, midnight blue, earth brown and black and white.

In a fashion year of wandering hemlines, the long and short of casual wear are captured. With a view toward subtle, simple lines and comfortable fit, there is a wide variety of classic and swinging mini-dresses. Choose the simple good looks of the basic long-sleeved pullover mini or the slip-on bra dress. Turn sophisticate in a drawstring mini shirt-dress or a belted cardigan mini. Strike a flamboyant note in a patch-pocket shirt mini or a kicky little zipper mini.

The tall, lean look is intensified with a versatile maxi jumpsuit set—a sleeveless jumpsuit with a jacket. But that's not all that's jumping. An exciting concept in playtime apparel—the drawstring and zip-up mini-jumpsuit, perfect as playsuit or swimwear cover-up.

The classic bikini ensemble completes the fashion forecast. The basic lines of the bikini carry themselves and are accentuated by a waffle-knit cardigan jacket which covers up, yet lets the sun shine through.

SEE IT NEW

The Shape of Things to Come in the mail becomes ever more imaginative, with the booming popularity of writing papers in interesting shapes. It all started with "long hand" notes in the shape of a hand; now includes flowers, animals, off-beat geometric shapes. All fold to fit in the standard rectangular envelope.

The Colorful Kitchen gets a boost from a new idea in kitchen carpet. Soft, luxurious-looking, easy care carpet of Creslan acrylic fiber now comes in colors to coordinate perfectly with the most popular appliance and counter-top shades.

Unbasic Black makes a bid for the fashion comeback of the year. For daytime as well as evening, fashions in black look newer than new done in contrasting textures; with important detailing; in fresh and different silhouettes.

A Mother's Helper for weddings is available at stores which sell sterling silver flatware. It's a handy booklet, "Wedding Guide for the Mother of the Bride." In it, she'll find just the information she needs to help make "the perfect wedding" a reality.

Clothes Go Active

The jumpsuit (left) with a jacket makes a fashion statement. It's zippered to the waist in 100 per cent nylon texturized fabric in swinging solids of black, navy, red, white and yellow. The classic bikini (right) makes its debut. It is in cotton and rayon blend in natural color. These designs are by Kirsti Fashions.

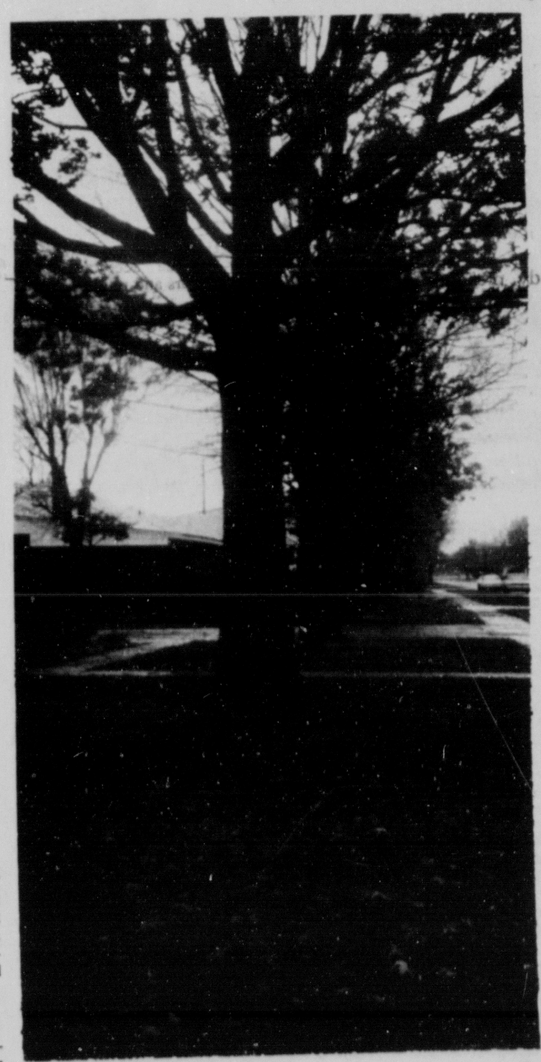
St. Louis Symphony Observes 90th Anniversary Saturday



MISTY, WINDY late winter days like today cause the oak trees to turn loose their winter coat of dead leaves, preparing for spring's greenery. Eddys of leaves swirl along the streets and sidewalks, covering the lawns and filling gutters. This lawn is at the corner of Taylor and College Streets.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Music fans are preparing to help the St. Louis Symphony observe its 90th anniversary with a Moulin Rouge Ball including red wine and cuisine whipped up by a French chef.

Born in 1880, the symphony launched its career under the baton of conductor Joseph Otten. Its historians say the musicians received $8 per concert and $3 for each rehearsal and when the treasury was low "there were few rehearsals." Many of these moments will be recalled Saturday night, Jan. 31, in the symphony's plush home, Powell Hall.

St. Louis was the first symphony to stage summertime tent concerts and pioneered children's concerts beginning in 1921.

The kids would shoot paper airplanes onto the stage, encouraged by conductor Rudolph Ganz who called for them to "shoot some more. Any more? Please shoot them."

The orchestra's historian notes that each instrument would give a brief demonstration of its range and tone and later, when the children clapped and whistled for a favorite instrument midway through a composition, the orchestra knew it was on the way to selling another generation of its music.

Other moments in the symphony's life that are recalled include:

The concert canceled when pianist Sergi Rachmaninoff's electric hand warmers shortcircuited during icy weather.

Early facilities that included no dressing rooms and a curtain accidentally opened after a performance giving a glimpse of the musicians changing their trousers on stage.

The symphony's audience is regarded as one of the youngest in the United States and includes more than 1,000 students — high school and college — among its season ticket holders.

Observers noted this season's opening night audience found guests in black tie, tails and formals intermingling with barefoot couples in suede fringed coats and flowered chintz dresses.

Co-chairmen for the Moulin Rouge Ball are Mrs. Howard Bland and Mrs. James Symington, wife of Rep. James Symington, D-Mo.

Special guests will include the French Ambassador to the United States and among numbers on the program will be the "Can Can," George Gershwin's "An American In Paris," and "Song from Moulin Rouge."

The St. Louis Symphony fans enthusiastically proclaim: "And there's a dance in the old dame yet!"

Coalesce Club Contributes To Clinic in Unusual Way

There has never been a picture or even a notice in the paper when the Coalesce Club was given money or articles to the Regional Diagnostic Clinic.

But in the 2½ years of the Clinic's existance, the Coalesce Club has provided a variety of items unobtainable from any other source. The money is not given to the Clinic, but used for children and families worked with by the Clinic.

For instance, the Coalesce Club sponsored a canoe trip in the Current River for seven underprivileged and retarded boys; provided one months foster care for a boy of normal intelligence who otherwise would have been sent to an institution; taken children from the Clinic to the Cape fair and to the movies; paid for dental care of a severely retarded boy, bought two geratic chairs, had an unusual size walker built and donated a baby bed recently.

To raise money for this and other projects of the club, a fashion show and bridge party are held every year. Plans for this year's party have just been made, according to the President, Mrs. Rose Napier.

"The Elite Club is already selecting models for the show which will be Tuesday, March 3, at the Senior High School Cafetorium. Following the show will be a bridge party with table and door prizes.

Tickets will go on sale February 15 at the Elite Shop and from Coalesce Club members.

SHS Upset At Bluff

POPLAR BLUFF — Defending tournament champions, the Sikeston Bulldogs, were the first upset victom of the 18th annual Poplar Bluff invitational basketball tournament last night as Kennett eased past the third-seeded Dogs, 48-46 on a last second goal.

The defeat was the second straight for SHS and its fifth in 10 games this season.

Poplar Bluff lived up to its second seed as it rolled over Doniphan 62-49 and will meet the Indians Thursday night at 8:30 p.m. in a semi- final round bout which will be preceeded by the match between Malden and Charleston.

Sikeston's offense sputtered after an 18-6 first quarter lead and was never able to regain its first period form while Kennett's scoring improved and gradually turned in the win.

Coach N. P. McDaniel's squad, which had a five game win streak ended Saturday night as the hands of Parkway West, led by 10 to 12 points through most of the first half but couldn't hold it as its shooting accuracy was off and Kennett made its bid to avenge an earlier loss to the Dogs.

Kennett tied the score at 30-30, from where both teams exchanged the lead until Sikeston picked up a 46-40 lead with 30 seconds left but lost as Kennett's Doug Gilmer hit the tying points and Larry Robinson notched the winning bucket as the final buzzer sounded.

Robinson led Kennett to a 17-5 third period advantage, scoring 11 points, and ended the game with high honors of 22. Gilmer added 12.

Larry Lawrence was Sikeston's big gun, netting 18 points.

Bluff snapped a two game losing streak behind Gene Hansborough's 17 point leadership and John Lawson's and Hosie Moss' 13 and 11 point assistance as the Mules moved into the semi- finals of its own tournament. Gary Prince had 16 for Doniphan's high.

NEW MADRID COUNTY big boys, James Tucker (42) of New Madrid and Jerome Wildnerness of Lilbourn during opening round action of the New Madrid county basketball tournament at Parma last night. Wilderness led Panther scoring with 14 points and Tucker was the big Indian rebounder as New Madrid advanced into the semi-finals of the league tournament with a 79-61 win.

Big Four In Semi-Finals

PARMA - New Madrid County's big Four cage powers remain to battle it out for the league tournament title after New Madrid, Parma and Matthews posted first round wins last night and Portageville moved into the semi-finals with a bye.

The tournaments and district's top rated New Madrid Indians eliminated neighboring Lilbourn 79-61, Parma sqyeezed by Gideon 67-66 and Matthews out-battled Risco 88-67.

All but one of the big four have placed in one of district's invitational tournaments this season, Parma being the lone cage unit. New Madrid is the Bernie titlest, Portageville the Cape Holiday champ and Matthews the runner-up in the Bloomfield classic.

Thursday's semi-finals pit New Madrid against Portageville at 7 p.m. and Parma and Matthews at 8:30 p.m.

Matthews shoots for its fourth straight league tournament title, coming into this season's meet seeded third behind New Madrid and Parma.

New Madrid's aggressive play and full court press was too much for coach Ted Mauck's Panthers to handle last night as the Indians teamed behind the 22 point performance of little George Ross to move into the semi-finals.

The Indians of coach Carroll Compton struggled to hold the lead in the first half but handled the Panthers with ease in the second half, rolling into a 61-45 lead going into the final period, out-scoring the Lilbourn quintet 22-12 in the third quarter.

Joe Walker added 19 points to the Indians total and James Tucker 12 while Jerome Wilderness scored 14 for Lilbourn's top effort, supported by Tom Wells' 12.

Host Parma led only six seconds in its game with Gideon last night, leading 1-0 in the first three seconds of the game and 67-66 in the final three seconds for the win.

Parma got assistance in its win from a Gideon cager who tipped in a third quarter bucket for the Pirates who trailed by 10 points most of the battle.

Gideon rattled the host with a half court zone press, ripping out to a commanding 10-1 lead at the start of the game.

Dick Burnett was the star of the Pirates as he sank a free throw with six-seconds left to give the home towners the win.

Joe White paced coach David Sharp's Parma quintet in scoring, netting 21 while brother Allen added 17 and David Williamson 15. Ron Buchanan had 21 for the Bulldogs top effort that was supported by Gerald Murphy's 17 and Mike Walker's 14.

Andrew Richardson and Clarence Brooks teamed for 54 points in leading Matthews past Risco, scoring 29 and 25 points respectively for coach Jim Hart's Pirates, who had two others score in double figures.

Risco's Larry Calvert dumped in 29 for the Tigers big effort and tied Richardson for high game scoring honors on the night.

Out scoring the Eagles in the last quarter by five markers, the Kelly Hawks found themselves only two short as the untimely buzzer sounded the end of the game for the Hawks.

Donald Evans once again lead the high flying Eagles last night with a 26 point production, which lifted the Eagles in to .500 ball. Shaffer and Senciboy added to the total as they collected for 9 and 8 points.

It was a thirteen point production by two Kelly Hawks, Larry Ulmer and Robin Burger that almost lifted the Hawks into victory.

Kelly's 36-26 JV win was lead by Tim Streeter with 11 points, as Deason and LaGrand hit 14 and 11 in the Oran effert.

Mistrial Called In $500,000 Strike Suit

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—A mistrial has been declared in the $500,000 damage suit filed by the parents of an 11-year-old boy who was wounded by a stray bullet during a strike at the Royal - McBee typewriter plant last year.

In declaring the mistrial Monday, Circuit Judge Jack Powell said "the court erred in admitting certain evidence." He did not elaborate.

The trial started the middle of last week and defense attorney Hal Fisher called repeatedly for a mistrial, while Tom Strong, attorney for DeWayne Cantrell, presented his case.

Defendant in the case was Allied Industrial Workers Lodge 496, which was on strike when the shooting occurred March 25, 1969.

The petition alleged that the shot was fired because young Cantrell's father, James Cantrell, crossed the picket lines to work during the strike.

A charge of mayhem was filed against a union member, Earl Murray, but he has not come to trial.

DON'T TAINT THE DANCE

MBABANE, Swaziland (AP) — Traditionalist African monarch King Sobhuza II, who dons tribal leopardskin loincloth and head-feathers even at state receptions, is a past master of Sibaca — a footstamping dance for Swazi tribesmen. So he knew what he was talking about when he accused his people of lowering their dancing standards. Tribesmen introduced dance steps from other tribes and worse still, incorporated such modern influences as jive music, he told abashed participants at a recent Sibaca competition.

Film Rating System Changes Announced

NEW YORK CITY — The motion picture industry's voluntary film - rating system is being strengthened with clarifying and improving amendments.

This announcement, based on a survey and re- evaluation by theater owners, was made in behalf of the three organizations sponsoring the system: Eugene Picker, president, National Association of Theatre Owners; Munio Podhorzer, member, governing board, International Film Importers and Distributors of America; and Jack Valenti, president, Motion Picture Association of America.

Their joint statement said:

"When the system went into effect on November 1, 1968, we said we would keep it constantly under review and would make a re- examination at the end of a year's trial period.

"We said we would not hesitate to make changes if they would improve the program. We have now made such revisions and we have acted in the light of facts developed in a national public survey and a nationwide exhibitor survey.

"The essence of the system remains unchanged. The purpose is to rate films for children, to furnish guides to parents to decide on the movie- going of their children. The system does not rate for adults, nor does it pass on the quality or artistry of a film.

"There are two principal revisions. First: The M rating is changed to GP. The rating GP means All Ages Admitted. Parental Guidance suggested.

"This was done because the M category was found to be the least understood by the public in a nation- wide survey of 2600 people (2000 over 18 years and 600 from ages 12 to 17) conducted for MPAA by Opinion Research Corporation of Princeton, N.J. The survey reported that fewer than one in 13 persons had accurate knowledge of the specific admissions policy for M films. Public confusion and misunderstanding over the word "mature" tended to result. The GP rating seeks to bridge the knowledge gap by making it unmistakable that the theater will admit persons of all ages, but parents may still choose to obtain more information on the movie to guide the attendance of their younger children.

"Second: The age limit for the R category is raised from 16 to 17. This obviously also necessitated designating the same age for the category.

"Again, the purpose is to strengthen the rating program.

"The movie ratings under the program now read:

G - All Ages admitted. General audiences.

GP All ages admitted. Parental guidance suggested.

R Restricted. Under 17 requires accompanying parent or adult guardian.

X No one under 17 admitted. (Age limit may vary in certain areas)

"The Code and Rating Administration will immediately start using the revised ratings and the entire program will become effective on a nation-wide scale on March 1, 1970. As in the past, the ratings will be carried in advertisements and will be posted at all participating theaters.

"A survey conducted by Young NATO, a group of younger executives within the National Association of Theatre Owners, reported, on the basis of returns from 3,164 theaters throughout the country, that 89% "always" or "usually" use the rating symbols in their advertising.

"There can be no doubt that the program is a gratifying success when it attracts such support on the part of theaters," said the three industry representatives in the joint statement. "The theater stands and speaks for the industry in the local community and it speaks in a reassuring voice in behalf of the rating system."

"The public's attitude toward the ratings was reported in the Opinion Research Corporation Survey.

"Fifty- eight per cent of the movie- going public said the program was "very useful" to "fairly useful" as a guide for deciding what movies children should see. The favorable attitude rose to 70% among movie- going teenagers age 12 to 17, who are themselves most directly affected by the ratings.

"It is our sincere determination," they concluded in their joint statement, "to assure that the symbols will not contribute in a greater degree to clarity and will foster a more rapid rise in public knowledge of the purpose, meanings and operations of the rating system. It is on this expanded knowledge that we shall seek with all energy to develop the widest possible public and industry support for the ratings."

CANADIANS ARE WORLDLY MEN

CALGARY, Canada (AP) — The Calgary Chamber of Commerce defines a Canadian as a fellow who drives home from a French movie in his German car, slips out of his Hong Kong suit and Italian shoes, puts on his Japanese robe and Mexican slippers and sips Brazil coffee from English china at his Danish desk while he takes his American pen to write his MP to demand that Ottawa must do something about the imbalance-of-payments situation.

Curator Support for Suspension of MU Fraternities Voiced

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—The University of Missouri Board of Curators fully supports Chancellor John W. Schwada in his suspension of 19 fraternities for violating rules on the Columbia campus, the board president said Sunday.

William H. Billings said he wanted to clear up any misunderstanding about the board's refusal to pass a resolution to suspend the fraternities Friday for allowing women students to visit in men's rooms.

The board, Billings explained, simply wanted the administration to handle the matter.

Schwada announced the suspension Saturday.

"While the rules of the board will not permit any disclosures of individual student personnel or disciplinary matters," Billings said, "I feel the students, the faculty and the public should know that the action of the chancellor with concurrence of the university president has not been taken without good and substantial justification."

THEY'RE READING UGARITIC

CLAREMONT, Calif. (AP) — The Claremont Colleges' Institute for Antiquity and Christianity is translating Ugaritic.

The writings are on clay tablets being dug out of a mound that once was the City of Ugarit, cultural center of the eastern Mediterranean world before the time of Moses.

After flourishing at least 300 years, Ugarit was overrun in about 1200 B.C. It was abandoned and never lived in again. Forty years ago a farmer's plough ripped open a tomb there and started one of the great historic finds.

Scholars believe that Ugaritic was the first language to use an alphabet. They found that Ugaritic writings had many parallels with the later Hebrew culture.

The Claremont Colleges' project is analyzing the parallels, funded by a $5,333.50 gift from Mrs. James L. Bruce and Mrs. N. Jordan Nathason, both of Altadena, Calif., which was matched by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Interco Sales, Earnings High

ST. LOUIS — Interco Incorporated reported that sales and earnings for fiscal year 1969 were the highest in he company's 58- year history. This marked the sixth consecutive year in which the results were greater than the prior year.

Net sales were $706.1 million for the year compared with $669.5 million in 1968 - an increase of $36.6 million or 5.5%.

Income before Federal income taxes of $49.4 million was $2.6 million or 5.6% higher than the corresponding figure a year ago.

Ne income was $22.8 million compared with $22.4 million in 1968 after providing for minority interests and dividends on preferred stock in both years.

Earnings per common share were $3.14 or 2 cents a share higher than the $3.12 earned in 1968.

Assuming full conversion of the preferred stock and exercise of outstanding stock options fully diluted earnings per share would have been $2.69 compared with $2.65 a year ago - an increase of 4 cents a share.

Average common shares outstanding for the year were 7,268,609 compared with 7,180,071 average shares a year ago.

Nineteen sixty- nine was the sixth year since the company began its program to broaden and strenghten the base of operations. In this period, sales have more than doubled and earnings per share are over 3-½ times greater, Mr. M. R. Chambers, Chairman of the Board and President said.

Important contributions to the steady growth of the company's sales and earnings have been made by the apparel and department store groups confirming the fact that we have acquired strong, well established businesses with aggressive and capable management, Mr. Chambers remarked. They have fully met our expectations. The company's timely decision six years ago to diversify has been well rewarded by the outstanding performance of these new groups.

The business of INTERCO INCORPORATED is comprised principally of consumer oriente products which are basic necessities to the expanding population in the middle income bracket, he said, and we expect the demand for thesy products and services to reflect an increasing share of this growing market.

As we move into the new year INTERCO'S board diversified program together with its strong fiscal and management resources should assure continued progress.

The company's annual report will e mailed to stockholders the first week in Februarv

Conrad to Spend 67th Birthday At South Pole

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (AP) — American "flying grandfather Max Conrad, first man to land a wheeled light aircraft at the South Pole, plans to spend his 67th birthday there.

Conrad, who is attempting to circle the globe by fiying over both poles, landed his twin-engine Piper Aztec at the Amundsen-Scott station Monday after an 84-mile flight from McMurdo Sound, Antarctica. The flight took 5 hours and 20 minutes, two hours less than he had estimated.

He plans to spend three of four days at the pole, including his birthday Wednesday.

Conrad beat two Scandinavian flyers to become the first to land a wheeled light aircraft at the South Pole by a margin of nearly 12 hours.

Conrad's landing culminates an ambition of five years' duration, frustrated twice previously when he tried to traverse the Antarctic continent over the pole from South America.

Family Dogged By Misfortune

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The John E. Mitchell family is dogged by misfortune.

Mitchell has a brain tumor which forced him to retire from his railroad job. With his $338-a-month pension, he supports a wife and six children.

Mrs. Mitchell and five of the children have heart conditions. The sixth child has a brain disorder.

Employes of the Army Mobility Equipment Command gave food, clothing and money to the Mitchells at Christmas. But while the Mitchells were away on a one-day visit to Mrs. Mitchell's mother, vandals broke into their home and took or spoiled everything the family got for Christmas.

Things a mother will miss when her boys have finally left home for good.

1. shoes on the kitchen table.
2. cuticle scissors stuck full of model glue.
3. half eaten apples turning yellow in the icebox.
4. chewing gum wrappers (but no gum) in every drawer in the house.
5. socks of every color and description with no mates.
6. jars full of breathing objects in most unlikely and unwanted places.
7. bath towels tossed wall to wall.
8. sticky fingerprints on walls, furniture and occasionally the ceiling — don't ask me.
9. the opportunity to look for every object they put on their back, which though in plain sight when a mother enters a room is always out of sight where a fellow's concerned.
10. going to the doctor for stitches and casts.
11. lipstick used as a pencil.
12. but most of all, the sticky kisses, the dirty laughing faces, the quick, casual hugs, the tiny whispered secrets, and the vast amount of love both given and received.

Mail Box

Mr. Blanton:

I read in the paper where Senator Eagleton voted against taxing the unions. I wanted to know why?

And as a taxpayer I thought it was only right that he explain his reason why. So here is the answer to my letter, I hope you print it to show the other side of the story.

Charles Hill
Route 2 Powell
Sikeston, Mo.

Mr. Charles Hill
Route No. 2- Powell
Sikeston, Mo. 63801

Dear Mr. Hill:

Thank you for writing concerning the tax reform bill. Since this bill began to take shape in the House of Representatives, I have believed that it should meet two objectives. First, it should remove -- or at least reduce -- the major inequities in the tax structure. Secondly, the revenue produced by these reforms should be returned as tax relief to those in the middle and low income brackets on whom the burden of taxation rests most heavily.

The tax reform bill, as it came to the Senate floor, while it represented a major step toward tax equity, was far from perfect. I supported amendments to strengthen the reforms in the bill and to close additional loopholes -- a further reduction in the oil depletion allowance, an amendment to tax the appreciated value of assets transferred at death (one of the biggest loopholes in the present law), the Metcalf amendment to deal effectively with the problem of tax- dodge farming, and the Kennedy amendment to substitute a progressive minimum tax on tax- sheltered income for the flat 5% tax now in the bill. Unfortunately, these amendments were defeated.

In addition, the bill was deficient in that it would have given 25% of the total tax relief to the 5% of taxpayers who make more than $20,000 a year. Therefore, I supported the amendment offered by Senator Albert Gore which was adopted by the Senate by a vote of 58 to 37. This amendment would increase the personal exemption to $700 in 1970 and to $800 in 1971 and succeeding years. The increase in the personal exemption, coupled with a $1,000 minimum standard deduction or low income allowance, assures that some 80% of the tax relief in the bill will go to those who make less than $15,000 a year. The Gore amendment also includes lower tax rates for single persons.

The tax reform bill now goes to a conference committee which must resolve the differences between the House and Senate versions. It is my hope that the final version of the bill will retain the kind of tax relief for the average American taxpayer that the Senate has provided, and that President Nixon will reconsider his thoughts about vetoing this kind of bill.

Sincerely yours,
Thomas F. Eagleton
United States Senator

P.S. Enclosed is the statement I made on the Senate floor in opposition to the Fannin amendment.

SENATE

Mr. EAGLETON, Mr. President, I believe the remarks of the Senator from Minnesota (Mr. MONDALE) clearly demonstrate that the basic thrust of the Fannin amendment is not to eliminate an inequity in the present law, but it is in fact, designed to create an inequity.

The Senator from Minnesota has pointed out that the present law, with respect to political activities of tax- exempt organizations, applies to labor unions and that all tax- exempt organizations are treated equally. The only exceptions are charitable organizations which operate under a "no- politics" rule. So, contrary to the proponents of the Fannin amendment, labor unions do not enjoy any special prvilege. There is no loophole here.

The Fannin amendment has been revised to apply to all tax-exempt organizations to give the appearance of neutrality. But it is a rather badly kept secret that even in its revised form, it is aimed primarily at the political activities of labor unions. In spreading its net a little more widely, the Fannin mendment now would catch another tax- exempt organization that carries on voter registration drives, as has been pointed out by the Senator from Minnesota - the League of Women Voters.

On Thursday of last week, the Senate adopted the amendment of the Senator from Texas (Mr. YARBOROUGH) which would permit foundation grants to organizations such as the League of Women Voters to carry on broadly based, non - partisan, voter education and registration programs. The Fannin amendment would prohibit these activities by the League of Women Voters. Clearly, this is not the will of the Senate, but it would be a side effect, perhaps inadvertent, of the Fannin amendment.

The central issue, the intent of this amendment, is to put organized labor at a disadvantage vis- a- vis corporations with respect to political activities. Again, as the Seantor from Minnesota has made clear, the present law is evenhanded in this regard. Under the Federal Corrupt Practices Act, which is one the law books and has been for many years, unions and corporations are treated identically. Both are prohibited from making direct contributions to candidates for public office. Both are permitted to collect and distribute voluntary political contributions. Unions are permitted to use union funds to provide political information to their members and to conduct nonpartisan activities such as voter registration drives. Corporations are permitted to deduct expenditures for the same kinds of ctivities. They may deduct the expenses of advertising their views on "financial, social, and other subjects of a general nature," and of encouraging their employees to register and vote and contribute to the party of their choice.

In short, under the present law, the criminal code prohibits the same activities by both unions and corporations. Corporations re allowed to deduct expenses for the very same political activities that labor unions are allowed to pursue with tax- exempt funds.

As I said when I commenced, it is clear to me - and it is even now more abundantly clear, after listening to the Senator from Minnesota in his exposition of his arguments- that the intention and the effect of this amendment is to create an inequity in the law where none now exists. For this reason, I shall cast my vote in opposition to the Fannin amendment.

40 Attend Soils Parley

BLOOMFIELD — Approximately 40 farmers and other interested persons braved cold weather and icy roads to attend the county soils and crops conference Jan. 19. Soil improvement and crop production and marketing practices were discussed by five farmers, two specialized extension agents, and an extension agronomist.

Two local farmers appeared on a panel discussion on Weed Control on Soybeans. Melvin Triplett, Dexter, described the benefits they obtained by using Lasso and Treflan as pre-emergence weed control treatments for soybeans. Robert Scherer, Bell City, reported that he got good results from the use of Dinitro as an early post-emergence treatment between the time the soil surface was cracked in the process of beans coming up and the formation of the first true beans. He also reported that flame cultivation was very effective in controlling weeds in beans at a low cost per acre. Tom Brown, County Extension Director, who served as panel moderator, described how Fred Owens applied 2, 4-DB on beans 12 to 14 inches all and showed colored slides of the results obtained. Owens was scheduled to appear on the program but could not do so due to illness.

Gary Crump, Bernie, who planted corn in a six year old stand of alfalfa on one field last year described his experiences with minimum tillage of corn. Weeds were controlled by the use of chemicals and the corn was not cultivated. In spite of a light stand of approximately 12,000 plants per acre, this corn produced approximately 65 bushels per acre. Although corn was not irrigated, it did not suffer for moisture noticeably, according to Mr. Crump. He showed colored slides to illustrate the results obtained.

T. D. Burleson, Dexter, who produced the Blueboyand Arthur varieties of wheat last year, discussed his experiences with these new varieties. Both varieties produced approximately 67 to 68 bushels per acre; however, the Arthur wheat had a much higher test weight than did the Blueboy.

W. L. Conner, Parma, told those in attendance how grain storage had paid good dividends on his farm. He installed grain storage, drying, and handling facilities at a cost of approximately 60 cents per bushel of storage capacity. These facilities allowed him to sell corn at prices 25 to 30 cents per bushel over harvest time prices. They facilitated earlier harvest which enabled him to cut down on field losses of corn. In addition, he saved time by not having to wait in line at the grain elevator during the busy harvest season.

John Yount, extension farm management agent who has, with the cooperation of the farmers involved, kept records of irrigation costs on four Stoddard County farms involving the use of both automatic sprinkler and surface types of irrigation. Although costs were considerably different in some respects, costs per acre were comparable.

John Garrett, extension area soils agent who is in charge of the Area Soil Laboratory at the University of Missouri Delta Center at Portageville, discussed improvements being made in the soil laboratory and benefits from these imprvements to be gained by local farmers. Major improvements are being made which will not only improve tests for elements presently being tested for but will add zinc to the elements being tested for. This will be especially important for land being levelled to grade, as zinc deficiencies are being found in numerous cases where land has been elvelled. He also discussed plant tissue testing and how it can be used to help diagnose problems in problem fields.

Joe Scott, extension agronomist, also from the Delta Center at Portageville, discussed recommended crop production practices for this area. He outlined recommendations of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture pertaining to crop varieties and chemical weed control and presented experimental results and showed colored slides to illustrate results which might be expected from the use of such practices.

Hubert Swinger, chairman of the county soils and crops conference committee, was in charge of the program.

Wheat Stockpile Hits 6-Year High

WASHINGTON (AP) — There were 1.527 billion bushels of wheat stockpiled in the United States on Jan. 1, the most since 1964, says the Agriculture Department.

The huge supply — enough to meet domestic requirements for more than two years—was a result of lagging exports and bumper crops the past three years.

Crop Reporting Board officials said Thursday the Jan. 1 total was 13 per cent more than a year earlier. Wheat stored on farms totaled a record 608 million bushels, nearly 5 per cent more than on Jan. 1, 1969.

Wheat stored in off-farm warehouses totaled 919 million bushels, 20 per cent more than a year earlier and the most for that date in four years, the report said.

Exports during the year ended last June 30 dropped to 544 million bushels, the smallest total in a decade. Department experts have predicted a slight improvement during the 1969-70 marketing year to an export total of around 600 million bushels.

Linkletter Busy Waging Personal War on Drugs

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Since his daughter plunged to her death last Oct. 4—the victim, he said, of LSD—Art Linkletter has been engaged in a personal war against dangerous drugs.

He has had an evening's discussion in the White House with President and Mrs. Nixon, addressed the nation's governors, appeared before Congressional committees, and spoken to youth groups in colleges and elsewhere.

He serves on a county drug commission and books all the speaking engagements a busy television career will permit.

What can one man do to stop the drug flood?

"Just a little," Linkletter says. "No one ever knows. But if I can save one kid's life, anything I do is worth it."

His next target will be the nation's schoolteachers.

Through a film aimed specifically at them, the entertainer says, he will try "to educate teachers in how to look for the danger signals, how to handle the drug problem in school."

Diane, 20, the youngest of his five children, fell to her death from her sixth-floor apartment. "It wasn't suicide," Linkletter said then, "because she wasn't herself. She was murdered by the people who manufacture and sell LSD."

Diane's death has brought him 55,000 letters of sympathy.

Linkletter advises the parent of a suspected drug user to have "a frank and honest talk—not an uptight, panicky, demonstrative, emotional talk but just as you might talk with your child if he were going on a cross-country hike over mountains where you knew the dangers and he didn't."

Kentucky has an area of 40,395 square miles.

JAMES BEAIRD, executive vice president of the Security Federal Savings and Loan Association, looks over a site where his company will build a new office.

Federal Savings to Build New Office

James Beaird, executive vice president of the Security Federal Savings and Loan Association, announced today plans for construction of an office building on highway 61 north south of the Medical Arts building.

The office has been at 124 East Center in downtown Sikeston since August of 1957, when the association was founded. There are seven employes.

"The increased accomodations will allow for better service and projected growth," Beaird said. "Sikeston is growing. We want to be a part of this growth."

The building will cover about 6,000 square feet and will be on more than three acres of land. Construction is expected to begin in 1971.

Initial plans call for private offices for Beaird and assistant Vice President Jim F. Smith in addition to space for accounting, records, tellers office, lobby, vestibule, receptionist area, drive - in window, covered walkways and a full basement.

Parking facilities will be on the north, east and south sides. The front next to the highway will be landscaped. Cost of the project was not announced.

Beaird said plans call for the association to adapt to computerized techniques following the move. Donnellan and Porterfield, a Poplar Bluff firm, has been retained to design the building.

February Deadline for Farmers

ST. LOUIS — Farmers have until Feb. 2 to report Social Security taxes withheld from their employees' wages during 1969, E. P. Trainor, District Director for Missouri, said today.

The reports should be filed on Form 943, Employer's Annual Tax Return for Agricultural Employees.

Mr. Trainor said that any farmer who pays an employee cash wages of $150 or more a year must withhold Social Security taxes. These taxes must also be withheld on wages under $150 for any person hired 20 days or more a year.

For tax purposes, a farm employer includes anyone who furnishes and pays workers to perform agricultural labor on his behalf or for someone else. Mr. Trainor said a "crew leader" is an employer under this definition.

The 1969 Social Security tax rate is 9.6 per cent of the first $7,800 of taxable wages paid a farm employee. Half the tax is paid by the farmer and the other half by the employee,

Farmers must give a W-2 wage and tax statement to every worker they pay $600 or more a year. Employees paid less than $600 should receive a statement covering their Social Security taxes, Mr. Trainor said.

More detailed information is available in IRS Publication 51," Agricultural Employer's Social Security Tax Guide." Send a post card to Internal Revenue Service, P. O. Box 1740, Plaza Station, St. Louis, Missouri 63199.

Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Bennett

Couple in Business 40 Years in Bloomfield

BLOOMFIELD — Jessie and Hallie Bennett completed 40 years in business in Bloomfield, Jan. 11. The first business venture was opened on the court house square, in what is now the Western Auto Building.

The name given to the new business was Bennett's Fred Cream Company.

Soon the new business expanded by the installation of incubators and the sale of baby chicks became a dominant activity for some time. Hallie relates that the incubators were heated by kerosene lamps or minature heating units. These heating units reuqired constant care and supervision and the eggs were turned daily by hand, Jesse and Hallie set up housekeeping in one side of the building for the purpose of looking after the business.

Next the Bennetts added retail groceries, bought and sold poultry, and various farm products. Success in these several ventures gave these young merchants confidence and they purchased the warehouse located west of the Buck Store Building; additional incubators, incorporating labor saving devices developed by Jesse for turning the eggs automatically and for regulating the electric heating units authomatically, were installed in the new building and Bennett Cream and Feed Store became the largest producer and distributor of baby chicks within the entire area and Jesse and Hallie were weli established in the business community.

Another expansion occurred with the purchase of the old livery stable lot, being the lot where Bennett Wholesale Company and Don's Bi-Rite are now located. After refurbishing the large livery stable building, the Bennett wholesale Company was organized; soon this company operated numerous delivery vans and trucks over Southeast Missouri.

Jesse continued to be interested in poultry production; this interest resulted in his travels over the country to observe the development of volume production of broiler chickens; s having convinced himself that he could improve on the methods then followed, he supervised the construction of broiler houses; this broiler production was an instant success. Their business now is a complete farm operation.

Aliens Must Register

KANSAS CITY — H. I. Major, district director of the United States immigration and naturalization service, said that all aliens residing in the United States must report their addresses during January.

The cards may be obtained at any post office or immigration service office. Parents or legal guardians of alien children under 14 years of age are required to complete the report for them.

Any alien who is ill or disabled may have a friend or relative obtain the card for them and return it to the clerk after it has been completed and signed by the alien. Under no conditions may the card be mailed or merely dropped in a mail box. It must be returned to the clerk in he post office. Only diplomats and persons accredited to certain international organizations are exempt from this requirement.

The deadline for filing is January 31st. After that date, the Post Offices cannot furnish the cards and it will be necessary for aliens who re tady to obtain them directly from the Immigration Service and explain the reason why they were not completed on time.

122 Color TV Models Above Fire Norm

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Commission on Product Safety says 122 models of color television sets have been exploding or catching fire at an above-average rate.

The commission's decision Monday to identify the models brought an accusation from the Electronics Industries Association that the commission was creating an unfair competitive advantage for some manufacturers.

The commission said the nation's 22 million color sets have been catching fire at the rate of 12 per 100,000. It said the sets it identified were igniting at the rate of 30 per 100,000.

Olympic television sets manufactured by Lear Siegler Corp. averaged the highest rate in the industry, the commission said. It said nine of the firm's models were identified as potential hazards.

The other firms identified as exceeding the industry average were, in descending order: Packard Bell, Magnavox, Sylvania, Philco-Ford, and RCA.

Five firms were identified as having an incidence rate below the industry average, although some models caught fire at the 30-per-100,000 rate. The firms, in descending order, were: General Electric, Admiral, Motorola, Emerson, and Warwick (Sears).

The commission, which has been conferring with the industry for three months on the issue, sent letters asking the manufacturers to recall, repair or replace faulty sets.

Commission chairman Arnold B. Elkind said some sets on the list might not be fire hazards but he added the information should be furnished to the public "rather than risk the consequences of fires in color television receivers."

In attacking the commission's action, Jack Wyman, staff vice president of the electronics association, said the report "will result in unduly alarming the public about the relatively limited problem." He said the problem of fires is small compared with the number of sets in American homes. "Television sets are safe products," he said.

ARMED FORCES

Army s/Sgt. James C. Hahs, 22, Sikeston, has been awarded a bronze star in Vietnam.

Hahs, who married Diane Dickerson, received the medal following action Nov. 9 when he distinguished himself by heroism in ground operations against hostile forces. His platoon size ambush unit encountered a company size enemy force.

His citation reads:

"Throughout the battle he retained complete control over his men. He continually exposed himself to the intense enemy fire in order to better direct his men and return fire, and he advanced to a forward position to effectively call in artillery fire.

Hahs is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hahs, 731 North Ranney.

He graduated from Sikeston High school in 1965 and attended Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau. He has been in service one and one half years.

Workshop At Kentucky Park Feb. 13-15

GOLDEN POND, Ky. — A Visit With the Eagles is a special weekend program to be offered to the public February 13-15, at Kentucky Dam Village State Resort Park on Kentucky Lake. This is the sixth in a series of field naturalist workshops sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Parks under the supervision of Jim Butler, Chief Naturalist for the department.

The highlight of the weekend program at Kentucky Dam will be guided field trips to Land Between the Lakes to observe the bald and golden eagles that winter in the area. These majestic birds migrate to Land Between the Lakes in the fall and can often be seen along the quiet coves of Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley until late March when they return to their northern nesting grounds. Land Between the Lakes is TVA's big 170,000- acre outdoor recreation area between Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley. Barkley Canal, the northern gateway to Land Between the Lakes, is only four miles north of Kentucky Dam Village. Canada Geese, a variety of ducks, white- tailed and fallow deer, and wild turkey are other interesting species of wildlife that are found in this heavily wooded area.

Feature speakers for the weekend will be Karl Maslowski, one of the top wildlife photographers in America, who will narrate one of his wildlife films; Robert M. Howes, Director of Land Between the Lakes, who will present an illustrated program on the area; and Dr. Clell Petersen from Murray State University, who will give a review of the wildlife in the region.

Kentucky Dam Village State Resort Park is one of Kentucky's finest resort parks and has luxurious lodge rooms overlooking Kentucky Lake and a variety of completely furnished housekeeping cottages. The parks department has announced that they will limit the weekend program at Kentucky Dam to a maximum of 200 persons in order to achieve the best quality field trips and offer the most satisfactory program. The weekend programs in the parks have been extremely popular in the past. Everyone interested in an exciting "Visit With the Eagles" is urged to make reservations at the earliest opportunity. Registration will close January 30.

For reservations, brochures,and additional information on rates and program activities write or call Jim Butler, Chief Naturalist, Kentucky Department of Parks, State Office Annex, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601, phone 502-564- 3006. Brochures with registration forms can also be picked up in Land Between the Lakes at the information office near the former site of Golden Pond.

THIS CONTEMPORARY one-and-a-half story version of the Cape Cod cottage provides for as many as six bedrooms with all rooms directly accessible from a central entry foyer. The large living room is at the center of the house and its brick corner fireplace and glass areas add to the homespun atmosphere. The country-size kitchen-family room with a sloping wood plank ceiling and clerestory windows evokes the bustling activity centers of the Colonial era. Plan HA616P, with 1,520 square feet of living space on the main level and 785 square feet on the upper level, was designed by Architect Samuel Paul, 89-30 161st St., Jamaica, N.Y.

After 42 Years of Failure He Still Hopes To Strike it Rich

By LEE BYRD
Associated Press Writer

BIG COTTONWOOD CANYON, Utah (AP) — For 42 years he's been here — an old man now — using the same crude cabin, tramping his trails and chipping his tunnel ever deeper in resolute hope of striking it rich.

By almost any standard, Roy Newman, 76, has endured the unendurable, suffered the insufferable. Forty-two years of failure. No silver, no zinc, no lead.

Nature toughens the task. Winter comes early and leaves late on these craggy, Alpine-like slopes. Only 10 miles down the canyon is the Salt Lake Valley, the big city and warmth. Newman stays.

Already the snow is 18 inches deep, and the hazy-gray shroud which brings it lingers longer each day, litterally trapped by the mountain walls. And it gets colder.

Newman has begun the methodical, repetitive chore of stomp stomp-stomping down the quarter mile paths which connect his cabin with the mine and the road. If he lets the snow build up too much, he could become lost.

Deputy Sheriff Verl W. Buxton recalls many a time when he spotted Newman out tramping when the snow was eight feet high. Still, he always found time to work the tunnel daily with his rockhammer.

Forty-two years of chipping away at that tunnel, now 2,000 feet long. Beautifully done, too. Just the right degree of slope for perfect water runoff. Still, nothing to show for it.

But Roy Newman is a happy man. "I have a goal," he says with a smile. "Anticipation is greater than realization." The smile never fades.

A gentle man. "Never says a bad word about anyone," says Buxton. No hatred or bitterness because his cabin has been ransacked by vandals many times over the years, usually while he was in the tunnel.

Not even when, recently, someone — perhaps deer hunters — riddled the door with bullets, then blew up Newman's 42-year-old wood stove with his own gunpowder.

Buxton and other deputies learned about that and got Newman a new stove, lugging it 500 yards through the snow. It took all night. Newman was so pleased.

A determined man. "I've got a lot of faith in this country," he says, even with 42 years of no luck. He had two years of geology in college. Other geologists say, perhaps. Just perhaps.

Newman went to the mountainside and built his cabin in early 1928. A year later he got close, too close to a dynamite blast.

Roy Newman has been blind ever since.

HE'S ENDURED the unendurable, suffered the unsufferable, but after 42 years of failure, Roy Newman, 76 and blind, is still determined to strike-it-rich.

Behind Scenes Workers Important at College

CAPE GIRARDEAU — What with all the student unrest in this country, everyone knows that a college wouldn't be a college without a faculty or an administration.

Probably stop to think of the other people behind the scenes whose work enables the faculty and administration to continue doing their jobs.

At Southeast Missouri State College, for example, there are more than 100 of these "other people" who are employed full-time. They havy such job titles as custodian, maid, plumber, electrician, air conditioning mechanic, fireman, operator, automobile mechanic, carpenter, laborer, bus driver, grounds keeper, and painter.

All of them, plus 40 or more student workers, are employed in the department headed by John T. Ruester, superintendent of buildings and grounds at the college. Others on the campus may have fancier titles, but few have as much responsibility in as many areas as Ruester does.

Ruester is responsible for such diverse undertakings as landscaping, building maintenance and repair, the power plant, minor to fairly - elaboate remodeling projects, custodial services, the campus security force, and the maintenance of the college's vehicle fleet of cars, buses, and heavy equipment.

"The campus is really a town within a town," says Ruester. "And we are a service department. Unlike a small school district, we don't call in an outside contractor when we have problems. There are very few problems we can't handle ourselves."

Ruester says the success of his operation is directly attributable to the men under him. "We have top-notch, hand-picked personnel," he says, naming his three top assistants as Harold Davis, in the power plant; Vince Seyer, in maintenance; and Archie Sprengle, in the custodial area.

A member of the college staff for just over 10 years. Reuster succeeded to the superintendent's post when Vernon Chapman retired in 1968. Chapman spent 53 years on the campus and now, though retired, still comes up to the campus for several hours each day.

The young superintendent – he graduated in mechanical engineering from the University of Missouri - Rolla in 1959 – says he is frequently called out at odd hours of the night because of some problem. "You gotta like it or you wouldn't do it," he says. Then he explains why he likes it:

"I enjoy people. The students keep you young, the faculty are very interesting, and the employees provide a lot of friendship. We're all sort of working together to keep this place tied down. If you didn't enjoy people, you couldn't stay in the job very long. I also like the variety which the job entails. It seems that nothing is ever duplicated."

Ruester says "the things that excite us most" are power outages and sewer stoppages.

His job is most difficult, he says, during cold snowy periods such as Cape Girardeau has experienced recently. Such times put a strain on the power plant, call for more maintenance of the grounds, bring on the possibility of frozen water lines and, in general, just cause a lot of little irritating problems, says Ruester.

"For some reason we seem to have more sewer stoppages during these times than in other periods," he adds.

Ruester, originally from Marissa, Ill., says the most rewarding thing he has done in the past year has been getting ready for a huge power plant addition on which construction is about to get under way.

Most of the contracts have now been let for the $2½ million addition. It will be constructed on the east side of the present facility and will double the capacity of the plant.

The contractors were about to begin the site excavation when the snowy weather set in, said Ruester in a somewhat disappointed tone.

If You Were the Judge

Miserly Comment Ruled Defamatory

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Charley had a great financial brain. After 20 years, he couldn't have made more money had he been a counterfeiter. He had all kinds of possessions and a home that resembled a department store. What he didn't have after 20 years, however, was a wife. At the end of that period of time, she just packed up and left and sued Charley for a separation.

"The reason she left," commented a friend, "was because Charley had more of a passion for money than for her. In making his bundle, he neglected her."

When Charley heard of the comment, he sued his "friend" for defamation of character.

"You see," responded the friend, "Charley's got such a keen desire to make money that he's even resorted to this lawsuit to do it. The fact is he knows that I didn't defame his character.

"He sure did," was Charley's answer. "He said I loved money more than I loved my wife. Obviously, that type of comment does not enhance a person's reputation."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you put Charley's net worth by making the friend pay Charley damages for defamation of character?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that one of the meanest of all vices is the mere love of money and, when a man is accused of being affected by the vice so far as to lose sight of the duty he owes his wife and family, he is made at once contemptible. Consequently, the statement made by Charley's friend was defamatory.

Corner of Questions

By PASTOR DON WILSON

QUESTION: WHY OPPOSE TODAY'S ENGLISH VERSION ENTITLED "GOOD NEWS FOR MODERN MAN?"

ANSWER: Comparing all modern translations, the King James Version remains superior in accuracy, clarity, and literary greatness. God's Word requires spiritual discernment for understanding, not modern English. "The natural man receiveth not the things of God: they are foolishness unto him neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned." Whenever translators twist the text to accomodate "ecumenicity," they should be refuted.

The second edition of TODAY'S ENGLISH VERSION removes VIRGIN from most references. The TEV in Luke 1:27 says: "He had a message for a girl." All young females are girls, however, few are virgins. The TEV destroys the text and classifies Jesus a bastard.

Regarding Christ's BLOOD, in Colossians 1:14 the KJV reads "In whom we have redemption through His blood, even the forgiveness of sins." The TEV removes the blood saying: "By whom we are set free and our sins forgiven." The TEV also removes the blood from Revelation 1:5 which reads in the KJV: "Unto Him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in His own blood." The blood is removed from the TEV at least 16 times. God says: "Without shedding of blood is no remission."

By suggesting that Joseph is the father of Jesus, the TEV attacks Christ's deity. In Luke 2:43, the KJV says: "Joseph and His mother," while the TEV says: "His parents." The TEV leaves "only begotten" out of John 3:16 where the KJV reads: "God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

The perversions of Today's English Version defames Christ and damns souls. God commands: "Ye shall not add unto the World which I command you, neither shall ye diminish ought from it;" therefore, Bible-believers reject this translation.

Credit Age Implications Beyond Many

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite the fact that the law now requires interest rates on consumer loans to be stated as clearly as possible, the suspicion exists that many buyers still are unaware of the implications of the credit age.

Clearly, credit as a way of life is not only firmly established but growing relentlessly, both in total amount and as a percentage of disposable income. Close to $120 billion is outstanding, not including home mortgages.

A proper understanding of credit may not be developing simultaneously, however, and the failing seems to be shared by both borrower and lender.

A survey by the Federal Reserve Board in July 1969 showed considerable confusion among heads of households about the interest rates they paid on automobile loans, department store credit and even home mortgages.

Since then the Truth-In-Lending Law has gone into effect, requiring that lenders state the dollar amount of finance charges and the interest as a percentage. But can anyone easily understand the charges on installment credit?

Compounding the confusion is the sometimes incredible state of credit bookkeeping. Holders of some credit cards find it almost impossible to get errors corrected. And in some stores the situation is as poor.

Consider, for example, the problem involved in a payment made but not recorded promptly by the creditor. The creditor includes the amount on the next bill, along with an interest charge.

One month later the creditor does make note of the payment and deducts it from the balance. But does the interest charge also come off? Not always, and not many borrowers are likely to spot the error either.

Some users of credit suspect that the much touted efficiencies of credit are not so real as advertised. They prefer instead to pay cash, seek a discount and keep their own records.

In Montebello, Calif., the editor of "Western Milk — Ice Cream," a Mr. Henry Adam Morse, complains:

"Establishments accept credit cards willingly, waiting 30 days for their money less part of their profit, but when one offers cash and asks for a discount it produces a financial crisis that requires calling the manager."

Several years ago Morse printed up some "Discount-For-Cash" cards and sent them to friends. Soon he was getting orders from all over the country for cards at three for $1, although they cost him only one cent to print.

So heavy were the orders, he says, that "for awhile I thought I had discovered perpetual motion."

Collector's Transfer Completed

BENTON — A committee overseeing the transfer of the Scott county collector's office from former collector Aubrey Michael to successor Tom Marshall has completed its duties.

The committee, is composed of Mrs. Elcie Streeter, a representative of Michael, Les Lankford, a representative of County Clerk Phil Waldman, and representatives of Michael's bonding companies, has turned over to Waldman the final figures on December tax collections by Michael's office.

Figures indicate a shortage of about $45,780 for December.

Waldman also disclosed the committee found an estimated $7,000 in receipt records missing from the office. These assessments are in the tax books but there are no receipt records of them in the office. Waldman said records indicate these taxes are not paid.

The office will be open Monday through Friday for persons to pay current taxes without penalty. Waldman said this decision by the county court was made because of the inconvenience caused by the closing of the office.

Michael resigned Jan. 6. The office has been closed since.

A list of persons on the unpaid list has been compiled and will be turned over to Prosecuting Attorney Tom Gilmore. These taxpayers will be contacted and if they have receipts showing their taxes have been paid, the amount will be subtracted from the estimated amount of shortages for December.

Paid tax receipts in the office show about $2,016.000. was collected in December. Waldman said the committee calculated that the $45,000 shortage equals slightly more than and two and one- quarter per cent of total collections and this percentage has been deducted from the totals to be paid government divisions when Marshall assumes his duties.

As an example, the Sikeston R-6 school district is entitled to about $785,000 from December collections. The portion of the $45,000. shortage applicable to Sikeston R-6 is about $18,000. This will be deducted and instead of the Sikeston district getting $785,000, it will receive $766,000.

Michael is bonded for shortages.

RECORDS FROM THE COLLECTOR'S office are being turned over to County Clerk Phil Waldman by two members of a committee chosen to prepare the office records for new collector Tom Marshall. From left, are Waldman, and committee members, Mrs. Elcie Streeter and Les Lankford.

House Upholds President's Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's veto of the $19.7 billion health-education money bill was upheld today as the House rejected an effort to override it.

The vote was 226 to 191. It was 52 votes short of the two-thirds needed to override.

The result was a solid victory for Nixon in his sharpest confrontation yet with the Democratic controlled Congress. The President said a veto was necessary because the $1.26 billion which Congress added to the bill for health and education programs was inflationary.

The over-all bill finances the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare, and various antipoverty programs.

A new bill will now have to be written and it is likely the Democratic majority will again try to put in more money than Nixon has budgeted, although not as much as in the vetoed bill.

The Democrats, in trying to override the veto, said inflationfighting cuts can be made in other programs but more money is needed to meet the nation's education and health problems.

Just before the vote, two Republican leaders put forward a possible compromise that would permit Congress to stand by the increased funding but let Nixon refuse to spend more than he wanted to.

It was also reported that the White House is prepared to approve increases over Nixon's budget totaling $448 million instead of the $1.26 billion added in the vetoed bill.

Rep. Albert H. Quie, R-Minn., said he received today a White House letter to be read to Congress assuring that Nixon would put $440 million, instead of the $202 million he had budgeted into the program for aid to school districts that include large numbers of federal employes.

Quie told newsmen that, although it is not mentioned in the letter, he had also been assured that Nixon would approve an additional $70 million for vocational education and $140 million for other programs. Thus the total package would be $448 million over Nixon's budget instead of the $1.26 billion provided in the vetoed bill.

Another alternative, approval of the full amount of the figures in the bill but a provision letting Nixon decide how much would be spent, was proposed by Reps. John Rhodes, R-Ariz., and Robert H. Michel, R-Ill.

Nixon, in vetoing the bill, told the nation Monday the $1.2 billion more than he requested in the measure was inflationary. He took special aim at $600 million for the impact aid when he said the measure provided "the wrong amount for the wrong purpose and at the wrong time."

The President originally proposed $202 million for the impacted aid.

Republican congressmen went into the vote torn between loyalty to the GOP president and pressure from home for the health and education funds as provided in the $19.7 billion measure. School officials said he veto could cause havoc and health authorities warned research programs would be crippled.

This was the first time in a decade for Congress to attempt to override a presidential veto. In 1960 the legislators overwhelmingly approved a 7½ per cent federal pay raise bill after President Dwight D. Eisenhower had rejected it.

Hubert H. Humphrey, who was a Democratic senator at the time of that vote, said Tuesday night in Philadelphia that he hoped Congress would be able to upset the Nixon veto. The former vice president and Nixon's opponent in 1968, said he didn't think the bill had anything to do with inflation.

Senate Republicans watched today's vote closely, hoping the House would sustain the veto and thus save them the agony of voting on it.

Sikeston Wins Contest Citation

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The continuous community betterment efforts of Sikeston have merited an honorable mention in the 1969 National Clean-Up contest in which the city competed with others of under 25,000 population from across the country. The contest is sponsored annually by the National Clean Up- Paint Up-Fix Up Bureau.

A member of the city's delegation to the 1970 National Congress on Beautification in Washington, D.C. will be presented the specially designed, framed certificate Feb. 24.

The city's scrapbook entry also has been chosen to be placed on display during the Feb. 22-24 Congress.

During the past year the people of Sikeston showed their enthusiastic cooperation in a broad and balanced community betterment program, which was graphically illustrated in the city's scrapbook entry. Contest judges were impressed with the commercial and residential property improvements and the strong emphasis given to youth participation in this outstanding civic improvement effort. Awareness was generated for the 1969 campaign by extensive newspaper and radio publicity.

James Beaird, president of the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce, said "This is something all of the people in Sikeston can be proud of. It just goes to show Sikeston continues to move ahead."

Hearing Slated on Open Air Burning

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Air Conservation Commission will conduct a public hearing in Jefferson City Feb. 26 to hear complaints and suggestions about a proposed regulation on open burning in out-state Missouri.

An earlier hearing, 18 months ago, produced a good deal of opposition and since then the posed rules have been modified, the commission's executive secretary, Harvey D. Shell, said Tuesday.

The regulations will not apply in the portion of the state where stricter regulations are already in effect, including:

The St. Louis city area, encompassing St. Louis city and the Missouri counties of St. Louis, Jefferson and St. Charles.

The Kansas City area, including the Missouri counties of Jackson, Cass, Ray, Clay and Platte.

The counties of Buchanan in northwestern Missouri and Greene in southwestern Missouri.

Under the proposed regulations these limitations on open burning would stand out:

Cities of less than 10,000 population would have two years to turn to some other form of disposing of refuse besides open burning, possibly an approved form of incineration or direct landfill.

Cities of more than 10,000 population would have only one year to make the change.

Householders could burn refuse in backyard incinerators, burn leaves in the fall and continue to have outside barbecues.

Tree stumps, tree limbs and land clearing fires would be permitted if not within 200 yards of an occupied dwelling.

Campfires and ceremonial bonfires would be permitted.

Shell said he hoped to get the reaction of sawmill operators and cotton ginners at the hearing. They did not appear at the earlier session.

Revenue Director Confirmed

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Senate today confirmed James E. Schaffner of Jefferson City as the new state revenue director along with 62 other appointees of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

James E. Riney of Hannibal also was approved as chairman of the State Tax Commission.

There has been considerable criticizm of the Revenue Department in the legislature but not a single question was asked of Schaffner when he appeared before a Senate committee Tuesday to be presented for confirmation.

He was appointed revenue director last July 1 to succeed Thomas A. David, now administrator of the Highway Commission. Schaffner has pledged an effort to put the department on a businesslike basis. He formerly was state purchasing agent.

Riney succeeds Hunter Phillips of Kansas City, who resigned to tend to his personal business. Like Phillips, Riney told a committee Tuesday he thought all counties should get their assessments up to a uniform 30 per cent of actual value.

Most of the appointments confirmed today were on state regulatory boards and commissions. Those who could not appear on short notice for committee questioning will be reappoined by the governor on an interim basis.

Other major appointees con-t firmed today included:

W. C. Banta of Charleston, reappointed to the Board of Education.

Marshall Sworn in as Collector

BENTON — Tom Marshall, highway 61 north, Sikeston, was sworn in today at 1:30 p.m. to fill the unexpired term of former Scott County Collector Aubrey Michael, who resigned Jan. 6.

Marshall was sworn in by County Clerk Phil Waldman. Michael's term runs until March 1, 1971.

Conferees Agree to Keep Water, Prison Outlays

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A House - Senate conference committee agreed today to retain a $6 million emergency allotment for state aid to water pollution control projects and also $500,000 for a start on a maximum security prison.

The quick agreement by the conference committee could make it possible for the special legislative session to end later today.

House Appropriations Chairman E. J. (Lucky) Cantrell, D-Overland, said he accepted the $6 million figure water pollution control because the money couldn't possibly all be allocated before June 30, the end of this fiscal year.

His action scotched a plan already afoot to block his attempt to ask for a House-Senate conference. Veteran Rep. Thomas A. Walsh, D-St. Louis, was all set to ask that the water pollution change be accepted by the House.

But when Cantrell acceded on that point the House agreed to delay final adjournment so other changes made by the Senate in the appropriations bill could be looked at.

Cantrell said the Senate made 18 changes and he thought the House could accept some of them if they were explained in conference.

As recommended by the governor, the bill contained a little over $21 million in general revenue tax money. The House cut that to $13.6 million but Tuesday the Senate expanded the total to $20.5 million.

Named to the conference committee to adjust differences on the appropriation bill were Reps. Cantrell, Walsh, William F. Casey, D-Posoti; Charles H. Dickey, D-Mexico, and William C. Phelps, R-Kansas City.

Senate conferees include appropriations chairman T. D. Mc Neal, D-St. Louis, and Sens. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville; Nelson B. Tinnin, D-Hornersville; Omer H. Avery, D-Troy, and Edward Stone Jr., R-Chesterfield.

The water pollution board asked Gov. Warren E. Hearnes to recommend that amount. He declined but did insert the request without his support in his emergency budget.

The House Appropriations Committee and the House sided with the governor and rejected the item, despite pleas from the Water Pollution Board that it would mean a big loss in the state's efforts to clean up its streams.

The Senate committee also rejected it but it was approved, 22-10, on the Senate floor.

Under present federal regulations if the local government comes up with 20 per cent of a project's cost and the state supplies 25 per cent, the federal allotment will make up the other 55 per cent.

Another change the Senate made in the House version was to give the Department of Corrections $500,000 to provide the basic start on a maximum security prison estimated to cost an overall $7.3 million.

The House had approved only $60,000 for extra guards to keep tighter control over hard core inmates prison authorities feel should be in a maximum security institution. The Senate accepted the $60,000 allotment but specified it should be for guards, psychologists and psychiatrists.

The House will receive from the Senate a resolution setting April 7 as the date for a special referendum election on the income tax hike law.

The differences over appropriations and passage of the resolution could delay the end of this special session of the legislature until Thursday or possibly into next week. The session began Jan. 19.

GOP Dinner Moves to Arena

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A $100-a plate Republican fund-raising dinner to be addressed by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew will be held Feb. 10 at the St. Louis Arena instead of a hotel, dinner chairman Donald W. Douglas Jr. announced Tuesday.

Officials of the St. Louis Labor Council, AFL-CIO, had urged its member unions to picket the dinner at Stouffer's Riverfront Inn because the hotel's employes are not represented by a union. The Carpenters Union said it would station pickets at the hotel.

"Even though the legality of the threatened picket line is disputed," Douglas said, "there is no arguing the fact that there is a dispute ... between Stouffer's and the union, or unions."

A Stouffer's spokesman said its employes voted against union representation in a Nov. 7 election supervised by the National Labor Relations Board and contends the unions are barred from further organizing activity for one year following the election.

Douglas said Stouffer's was chosen because its ballroom can seat 2,000 persons. No other hotel in the city has a comparable facility.

"We booked the dinner with Stouffer's with no knowledge of a union problem," he added.

British Troops Head off March

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — British troops with fixed bayonets headed off a Protestant march on a Roman Catholic section of Belfast early today as angry chanting crowds roamed the streets for the fourth night in a row.

The upsurge of tension brought fears of a revival of the religious warfare in which more than 20 persons were killed and hundreds injured last year.

Shortly after midnight a mob of about 500 Protestants tried to charge the "peace line" of barbed wire and steel between the Protestant Shankill Road section and the Catholic Falls Road area.

They were met by a line of troops with bayonets fixed and wearing gas masks, apparently ready to use tear gas for the first time since armed clashes last October. The mob retreated.

The British army garrison in Northern Ireland, which is part of the United Kingdom, has been reduced to 6,000 men. Army officers say this is enough to handle riots but probably not enough to cope with a guerrilla war.

Israelis Bomb Cairo Outskirts

CAIRO (AP) — This Egyptian capital underwent its first air raid since the 1967 war today when four Israeli planes attacked targets on the outskirts of the fashionable suburb of Maadi.

Given a summons to appear in city court today for the same offense were Alzela Johnson, 17, and Leora Long, 19, both of Charleston.

Cameron said he didn't see or hear a car.

BELL CITY — Firemen went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. William (Bud) Surface at 9:30 a.m. today to combat a blaze at the four- room frame house.

The Ford was damaged on the right rear fender and bumper. The Chevrolet was damaged on the right rear fender, tail light, and bumper.

Yablonski Case Developments Reported

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sources close to the Yablonski family slaying investigation said today three hired gunmen killed the United Mine Workers official and his wife and daughter, and that a fourth man who backed out of the assignment was in custody.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer, in a copyright story in today's editions, said the killers were promised $1,700 apiece. The story added that the triple slaying stemmed from "a personal beef" not connected with union matters.

Charles G. Cusick, agent in charge of the Cleveland FBI office, answered all questions about the report with, "No comment."

Other developments reported by the Plain Dealer and other sources:

—Navy deep-sea divers found a .38-caliber pistol Tuesday in the Monongahela River about five miles from the Clarksville, Pa., home where Joseph A. Yablonski, 59, his wife, Margaret, 57, and daughter, Charlotte Joanne, 25, were slain.

—FBI agents extended their investigation into the Kentucky and Tennessee coal mine fields where Yablonski, a rebel leader in the UMW was a household name among miners.

—In Cleveland, U.S. Attorney Robert B. Krupansky said a grand jury investigation into the slayings, which opened Tuesday, probably would be extended through next week.

—The Plain Dealer reported that "all the information gathered led authorities to conclude the deaths were 'a hit' or hired killing."

Three men have been charged with murder in the slayings. They are Paul E. Gilly, 36, Claude E. Vealey, 26, and Aubran W. Martin, 21, all of the Cleveland area.

Reporting that its information had been pieced together from various sources, the Plain Dealer gave this account:

Yablonski's home had been visited several times before the killings. On one trip the slayers entered the house when the family was absent and made friends with the family dog, and on another occasion two of the men confronted Yablonski at the door, intending to kill him then, but changed their minds. The Yablonskis were slain in their bedrooms Dec. 31. The bodies were not found until Jan. 5.

The night of the slaying, the men entered the Yablonski home, one with a .38-caliber pistol assigned to the daughter's bedroom and another with a 30 caliber M1 carbine to fire from the hallway into the parents' bedroom.

A few miles from the house they threw the carbine and pistol into the Monongahela River.

"The men later consoled themselves, 'It would be a big splash in the Clarksville paper and blow over in a couple of days.'" the Plain Dealer said.

Gilly's wife, Annette, and two of the victim's sons, Joseph Jr. and Kenneth, were among those who testified at the grand jury hearings Tuesday.

Krupansky refused to comment on testimony taken at the opening session or on the developments reported by the Plain Dealer.

Yablonski lost a bitter Dec. 6 election attempt to unseat UMW President W. A. "Tony" Boyle.

Investigators have said that none of those charged in the slayings had union connections.

All Teen-Agers Think About Sex...With or Without Mom's Approval

Dear Ann Landers: I am still boiling over that woman who raced her kids to the paper every day to see if your column was fit for them to read. She said she would cancel her subscription to the paper if you printed one more dirty letter. I'll bet anything she is fighting against sex education in public schools, too.

A girl I know has a mother like that. If she says the word "boy" in the house she gets grounded for three days. Of course, she is meeting guys in garages and parks and on street corners, just to get even with her ma. And she's putting out to everybody. What do these mothers think they are accomplishing when they hide your column? Don't they know every normal teen - ager thinks about sex? Your column tells them how they OUGHT to think about it. Do these mothers believe if they tell their kids to forget about sex that they will? How come they don't remember how it was when THEY were teen -agers?

That dumb mother doesn't realize you are doing HER job. She should thank her lucky stars you are able to communicate with her teen - agers. Kids listen to you and respect you. For sure that mother is out in left field without a glove.

I hope you don't let letters like that get to you. Please keep on writing your column, Ann. We need you— Tampa Teen.

Dear Teen: Letters like that don't bother me, because for every one of THOSE, I get 20 like yours. I intend to keep at it as long as my typewriter holds up -- and I've got a very fine electric machine which is virtually indestructible.

Dear Ann Landers: I am getting so fed up on office solicitation I'm ready to scream. For the third time in seven weeks, I've been asked to chip in for a going - away gift. The girls are not getting married, or even leaving town. They are quitting to take other jobs.

Our office manager has been here 17 years. She is wonderfully efficient, has a beautiful disposition and is loved by everyone. Someone should take up the collection for HER -- not the dames who quit to make $7 more a week somewhere else.

I told the last person who approached me for a going - away gift donation, "Sorry,no." It was easy. Others should try it. -- Omaha

Dear O.: Here's your letter. And for those who can't say "Sorry,no," as easily as you, I suggest they clip this column and hand it to the next collector.

Dear Ann Landers: This is no big deal, but I'd like your opinion. When my cousin visited me recently, she brought along a record album which belonged to one of her friends. She said her friend didn't know she had "borrowed" the album so we had to be extra careful with it. When my cousin left, she forgot to take the album.

A few weeks later I was taking the record to my cousin and it got a little warped form being accidentally left on the car seat which was parked in the sun.

Now my cousin says I owe her $5.00. I say she is responsible for the record. What do you say? -- Judy and Lisa

Dear J and L: You both sound like a couple of dollies to me. Split the cost of the record and forget it.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin

Planning Meeting For Child Care Center

NEW MADRID - Persons interested in the New Madrid community child care center are requested to attend at 8 p.m. Thursday at O'Bannon school, 201 Pinnell street, the Rev. Wally Ellinger, chairman of the executive committee announced today.

Planning For Summer Weather

NEW YORK—(NEA)—For today's active women who seek a versatile wardrobe and prefer natural adaptable styles, a new sportswear house brings the bold and vibrant qualities of Scandinavia to America. Kirsti combines the fabrics of Finland with American design expertise and creates a variety of daytime and swimwear fashions ideal for sport and leisure.

From start to finish, the accent is upon free and easy living and the diversified selection of fabrics, colors and styles makes springtime fun a carefree, full-time activity.

Finland's textile ingenuity has made the summerweight quality fabrics of chiffon velour, texturized nylon and cotton knit breezily worry-proof. Soft, flexible and durable, they're just right for the active traveling life of today's young people. All are machine-washable and have been treated for soil resistance.

The Land of the Midnight Sun is brought to America in bold Scandinavian colors—solids and stripes of brilliant sun yellow, sunset red, midnight blue, earth brown and black and white.

In a fashion year of wandering hemlines, the long and short of casual wear are captured. With a view toward subtle, simple lines and comfortable fit, there is a wide variety of classic and swinging mini-dresses. Choose the simple good looks of the basic long-sleeved pullover mini or the slip-on bra dress. Turn sophisticate in a drawstring mini shirt-dress or a belted cardigan mini. Strike a flamboyant note in a patch-pocket shirt mini or a kicky little zipper mini.

The tall, lean look is intensified with a versatile maxi jumpsuit set—a sleeveless jumpsuit with a jacket. But that's not all that's jumping. An exciting concept in playtime apparel—the drawstring and zip-up mini-jumpsuit, perfect as playsuit or swimwear cover-up.

The classic bikini ensemble completes the fashion forecast. The basic lines of the bikini carry themselves and are accentuated by a waffle-knit cardigan jacket which covers up, yet lets the sun shine through.

SEE IT NEW

The Shape of Things to Come in the mail becomes ever more imaginative, with the booming popularity of writing papers in interesting shapes. It all started with "long hand" notes in the shape of a hand; now includes flowers, animals, off-beat geometric shapes. All fold to fit in the standard rectangular envelope.

The Colorful Kitchen gets a boost from a new idea in kitchen carpet. Soft, luxurious-looking, easy care carpet of Creslan acrylic fiber now comes in colors to coordinate perfectly with the most popular appliance and counter-top shades.

Unbasic Black makes a bid for the fashion comeback of the year. For daytime as well as evening, fashions in black look newer than new done in contrasting textures; with important detailing; in fresh and different silhouettes.

A Mother's Helper for weddings is available at stores which sell sterling silver flatware. It's a handy booklet, "Wedding Guide for the Mother of the Bride." In it, she'll find just the information she needs to help make "the perfect wedding" a reality.

Clothes Go Active

The jumpsuit (left) with a jacket makes a fashion statement. It's zippered to the waist in 100 per cent nylon texturized fabric in swinging solids of black, navy, red, white and yellow. The classic bikini (right) makes its debut. It is in cotton and rayon blend in natural color. These designs are by Kirsti Fashions.

St. Louis Symphony Observes 90th Anniversary Saturday

MISTY, WINDY late winter days like today cause the oak trees to turn loose their winter coat of dead leaves, preparing for spring's greenery. Eddys of leaves swirl along the streets and sidewalks, covering the lawns and filling gutters. This lawn is at the corner of Taylor and College Streets.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Music fans are preparing to help the St. Louis Symphony observe its 90th anniversary with a Moulin Rouge Ball including red wine and cuisine whipped up by a French chef.

Born in 1880, the symphony launched its career under the baton of conductor Joseph Otten. Its historians say the musicians received $8 per concert and $3 for each rehearsal and when the treasury was low "there were few rehearsals." Many of these moments will be recalled Saturday night, Jan. 31, in the symphony's plush home, Powell Hall.

St. Louis was the first symphony to stage summertime tent concerts and pioneered children's concerts beginning in 1921.

The kids would shoot paper airplanes onto the stage, encouraged by conductor Rudolph Ganz who called for them to "shoot some more. Any more? Please shoot them."

The orchestra's historian notes that each instrument would give a brief demonstration of its range and tone and later, when the children clapped and whistled for a favorite instrument midway through a composition, the orchestra knew it was on the way to selling another generation of its music.

Other moments in the symphony's life that are recalled include:

The concert canceled when pianist Sergi Rachmaninoff's electric hand warmers shortcircuited during icy weather.

Early facilities that included no dressing rooms and a curtain accidentally opened after a performance giving a glimpse of the musicians changing their trousers on stage.

The symphony's audience is regarded as one of the youngest in the United States and includes more than 1,000 students — high school and college — among its season ticket holders.

Observers noted this season's opening night audience found guests in black tie, tails and formals intermingling with barefoot couples in suede fringed coats and flowered chintz dresses.

Co-chairmen for the Moulin Rouge Ball are Mrs. Howard Bland and Mrs. James Symington, wife of Rep. James Symington, D-Mo.

Special guests will include the French Ambassador to the United States and among numbers on the program will be the "Can Can," George Gershwin's "An American In Paris," and "Song from Moulin Rouge."

The St. Louis Symphony fans enthusiastically proclaim: "And there's a dance in the old dame yet!"

Coalesce Club Contributes To Clinic in Unusual Way

There has never been a picture or even a notice in the paper when the Coalesce Club was given money or articles to the Regional Diagnostic Clinic.

But in the 2½ years of the Clinic's existance, the Coalesce Club has provided a variety of items unobtainable from any other source. The money is not given to the Clinic, but used for children and families worked with by the Clinic.

For instance, the Coalesce Club sponsored a canoe trip in the Current River for seven underprivileged and retarded boys; provided one months foster care for a boy of normal intelligence who otherwise would have been sent to an institution; taken children from the Clinic to the Cape fair and to the movies; paid for dental care of a severely retarded boy, bought two geratic chairs, had an unusual size walker built and donated a baby bed recently.

To raise money for this and other projects of the club, a fashion show and bridge party are held every year. Plans for this year's party have just been made, according to the President, Mrs. Rose Napier.

"The Elite Club is already selecting models for the show which will be Tuesday, March 3, at the Senior High School Cafetorium. Following the show will be a bridge party with table and door prizes.

Tickets will go on sale February 15 at the Elite Shop and from Coalesce Club members.

Mistrial Called In $500,000 Strike Suit

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—A mistrial has been declared in the $500,000 damage suit filed by the parents of an 11-year-old boy who was wounded by a stray bullet during a strike at the Royal - McBee typewriter plant last year.

In declaring the mistrial Monday, Circuit Judge Jack Powell said "the court erred in admitting certain evidence." He did not elaborate.

The trial started the middle of last week and defense attorney Hal Fisher called repeatedly for a mistrial, while Tom Strong, attorney for DeWayne Cantrell, presented his case.

Defendant in the case was Allied Industrial Workers Lodge 496, which was on strike when the shooting occurred March 25, 1969.

The petition alleged that the shot was fired because young Cantrell's father, James Cantrell, crossed the picket lines to work during the strike.

A charge of mayhem was filed against a union member, Earl Murray, but he has not come to trial.

DON'T TAINT THE DANCE

MBABANE, Swaziland (AP) — Traditionalist African monarch King Sobhuza II, who dons tribal leopardskin loincloth and headfeathers even at state receptions, is a past master of Sibaca — a footstamping dance for Swazi tribesmen. So he knew what he was talking about when he accused his people of lowering their dancing standards. Tribesmen introduced dance steps from other tribes and worse still, incorporated such modern influences as jive music, he told abashed participants at a recent Sibaca competition.

Interco Sales, Earnings High

ST. LOUIS — Interco Incorporated reported that sales and earnings for fiscal year 1969 were the highest in he company's 58- year history. This marked the sixth consecutive year in which the results were greater than the prior year.

Net sales were $706.1 million for the year compared with $669.5 million in 1968 - an increase of $36.6 million or 5.5%.

Income before Federal income taxes of $49.4 million was $2.6 million or 5.6% higher than the corresponding figure a year ago.

Ne income was $22.8 million compared with $22.4 million in 1968 after providing for minority interests and dividends on preferred stock in both years.

Earnings per common share were $3.14 or 2 cents a share higher than the $3.12 earned in 1968.

Assuming full conversion of the preferred stock and exercise of outstanding stock options fully diluted earnings per share would have been $2.69 compared with $2.65 a year ago - an increase of 4 cents a share.

Average common shares outstanding for the year were 7,268,609 compared with 7,180,071 average shares a year ago.

Nineteen sixty- nine was the sixth year since the company began its program to broaden and strenghten the base of operations. In this period, sales have more than doubled and earnings per share are over 3-½ times greater, Mr. M. R. Chambers, Chairman of the Board and President said.

Important contributions to the steady growth of the company's sales and earnings have been made by the apparel and department store groups confirming the fact that we have acquired strong, well established businesses with aggressive and capable management, Mr. Chambers remarked. They have fully met our expectations. The company's timely decision six years ago to diversify has been well rewarded by the outstanding performance of these new groups.

The business of INTERCO INCORPORATED is comprised principally of consumer oriente products which are basic necessities to the expanding population in the middle income bracket, he said, and we expect the demand for thesy products [illegible] to reflect an increasing share of this growing market.

As we move into the new year INTERCO'S board diversified program together with its strong fiscal and management resources should assure continued progress.

The company's annual report will e mailed to stockholders the first week in Februarv

Conrad to Spend 67th Birthday At South Pole

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (AP) — American "flying grandfather Max Conrad, first man to land a wheeled light aircraft at the South Pole, plans to spend his 67th birthday there.

Conrad, who is attempting to circle the globe by flying over both poles, landed his twin-engine Piper Aztec at the Amundsen-Scott station Monday after an 84-mile flight from McMurdo Sound, Antarctica. The flight took 5 hours and 20 minutes, two hours less than he had estimated.

He plans to spend three of four days at the pole, including his birthday Wednesday.

Conrad beat two Scandinavian flyers to become the first to land a wheeled light aircraft at the South Pole by a margin of nearly 12 hours.

Conrad's landing culminates an ambition of five years' duration, frustrated twice previously when he tried to traverse the Antarctic continent over the pole from South America.

Family Dogged By Misfortune

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The John E. Mitchell family is dogged by misfortune.

Mitchell has a brain tumor which forced him to retire from his railroad job. With his $338-a-month pension, he supports a wife and six children.

Mrs. Mitchell and five of the children have heart conditions. The sixth child has a brain disorder.

Employes of the Army Mobility Equipment Command gave food, clothing and money to the Mitchells at Christmas. But while the Mitchells were away on a one-day visit to Mrs. Mitchell's mother, vandals broke into their home and took or spoiled everything the family got for Christmas.

The eye is quicker than the ear because the velocity of light is much greater than that of sound in air.

—by Cherie—

Things a mother will miss when her boys have finally left home for good.

1. shoes on the kitchen table.
2. cuticle scissors stuck full of model glue.
3. half eaten apples turning yellow in the icebox.
4. chewing gum wrappers (but no gum) in every drawer in the house.
5. socks of every color and description with no mates.
6. jars full of breathing objects in most unlikely and unwanted places.
7. bath towels tossed wall to wall.
8. sticky fingerprints on walls, furniture and occasionally the ceiling —— don't ask me.
9. the opportunity to look for every object they put on their back, which though in plain sight when a mother enters a room is always out of sight where a fellow's concerned.
10. going to the doctor for stitches and casts.
11. lipstick used as a pencil.
12. but most of all, the sticky kisses, the dirty laughing faces, the quick, casual hugs, the tiny whispered secrets, and the vast amount of love both given and received.

Mr. Blanton:

I read in the paper where Senator Eagleton voted against taxing the unions. I wanted to know why?

And as a taxpayer I thought it was only right that he explain his reason why. So here is the answer to my letter, I hope you print it to show the other side of the story.

Charles Hill
Route 2 Powell
Sikeston, Mo.

Mr. Charles Hill
Route No. 2- Powell
Sikeston, Mo. 63801

Dear Mr. Hill:

Thank you for writing concerning the tax reform bill. Since this bill began to take shape in the House of Representatives, I have believed that it should meet two objectives. First, it should remove -- or at least reduce -- the major inequities in the tax structure. Secondly, the revenue produced by these reforms should be returned as tax relief to those in the middle and low income brackets on whom the burden of taxation rests most heavily.

The tax reform bill, as it came to the Senate floor, while it represented a major step toward tax equity, was far from perfect. I supported amendments to strengthen the reforms in the bill and to close additional loopholes -- a further reduction in the oil depletion allowance, an amendment to tax the appreciated value of assets transferred at death (one of the biggest loopholes in the present law), the Metcalf amendment to deal effectively with the problem of tax- dodge farming, and the Kennedy amendment to substitute a progressive minimum tax on tax- sheltered income for the flat 5% tax now in the bill. Unfortunately, these amendments were defeated.

In addition, the bill was deficient in that it would have given 25% of the total tax relief to the 5% of taxpayers who make more than $20,000 a year. Therefore, I supported the amendment offered by Senator Albert Gore which was adopted by the Senate by a vote of 58 to 37. This amendment would increase the personal exemption to $700 in 1970 and to $800 in 1971 and succeeding years. The increase in the personal exemption, coupled with a $1,000 minimum standard deduction or low income allowance, assures that some 80% of the tax relief in the bill will go to those who make less than $15,000 a year. The Gore amendment also includes lower tax rates for single persons.

The tax reform bill now goes to a conference committee which must resolve the differences between the House and Senate versions. It is my hope that the final version of the bill will retain the kind of tax relief for the average American taxpayer that the Senate has provided, and that President Nixon will reconsider his thoughts about vetoing this kind of bill.

Sincerely yours,
Thomas F. Eagleton
United States Senator

P.S. Enclosed is the statement I made on the Senate floor in opposition to the Fannin amendment.

SENATE

Mr. EAGLETON, Mr. President, I believe the remarks of the Senator from Minnesota (Mr. MONDALE) clearly demonstrate that the basic thrust of the Fannin amendment is not to eliminate an inequity in the present law, but it is in fact, designed to create an inequity.

The Senator from Minnesota has pointed out that the present law, with respect to political activities of tax- exempt organizations, applies to labor unions and that all tax- exempt organizations are treated equally. The only exceptions are charitable organizations which operate under a "no- politics" rule. So, contrary to the proponents of the Fannin amendment, labor unions do not enjoy any special prvilege. There is no loophole here.

The Fannin amendment has been revised to apply to all tax-exempt organizations to give the appearance of neutrality. But it is a rather badly kept secret that even in its revised form, it is aimed primarily at the political activities of labor unions. In spreading its net a little more widely, the Fannin mendment now would catch another tax- exempt organization that carries on voter registration drives, as has been pointed out by the Senator from Minnesota - the League of Women Voters.

On Thursday of last week, the Senate adopted the amendment of the Senator from Texas (Mr. YARBOROUGH) which would permit foundation grants to organizations such as the League of Women Voters to carry on broadly based, non - partisan, voter education and registration programs. The Fannin amendment would prohibit these activities by the League of Women Voters. Clearly, this is not the will of the Senate, but it would be a side effect, perhaps inadvertent, of the Fannin amendment.

The central issue, the intent of this amendment, is to put organized labor at a disadvantage vis- a- vis corporations with respect to political activities. Again, as the Seantor from Minnesota has made clear, the present law is evenhanded in this regard. Under the Federal Corrupt Practices Act, which is one the law books and has been for many years, unions and corporations are treated identically. Both are prohibited from making direct contributions to candidates for public office. Both are permitted to collect and distribute voluntary political contributions. Unions are permitted to use union funds to provide political information to their members and to conduct nonpartisan activities such as voter registration drives. Corporations are permitted to deduct expenditures for the same kinds of ctivities. They may deduct the expenses of advertising their views on "financial, social, and other subjects of a general nature," and of encouraging their employees to register and vote and contribute to the party of their choice.

In short, under the present law, the criminal code prohibits the same activities by both unions and corporations. Corporations re allowed to deduct expenses for the very same political activities that labor unions are allowed to pursue with tax- exempt funds.

As I said when I commenced, it is clear to me - and it is even now more abundantly clear, after listening to the Senator from Minnesota in his exposition of his arguments- that the intention and the effect of this amendment is to create an inequity in the law where none now exists. For this reason, I shall cast my vote in opposition to the Fannin amendment.

40 Attend Soils Parley

BLOOMFIELD — Approximately 40 farmers and other interested persons braved cold weather and icy roads to attend the county soils and crops conference Jan. 19. Soil improvement and crop production and marketing practices were discussed by five farmers, two specialized extension agents, and an extension agronomist.

Two local farmers appeared on a panel discussion on Weed Control on Soybeans. Melvin Triplett, Dexter, described the benefits they obtained by using Lasso and Treflan as pre-emergence weed control treatments for soybeans. Robert Scherer, Bell City, reported that he got good results from the use of Dinitro as an early post-emergence treatment between the time the soil surface was cracked in the process of beans coming up and the formation of the first true beans. He also reported that flame cultivation was very effective in controlling weeds in beans at a low cost per acre. Tom Brown, County Extension Director, who served as panel moderator, described how Fred Owens applied 2, 4-DB on beans 12 to 14 inches all and showed colored slides of the results obtained. Owens was scheduled to appear on the program but could not do so due to illness.

Gary Crump, Bernie, who planted corn in a six year old stand of alfalfa on one field last year described his experiences with minimum tillage of corn. Weeds were controlled by the use of chemicals and the corn was not cultivated. In spite of a light stand of approximately 12,000 plants per acre, this corn produced approximately 65 bushels per acre. Although corn was not irrigated, it did not suffer for moisture noticeably, according to Mr. Crump. He showed colored slides to illustrate the results obtained.

T. D. Burleson, Dexter, who produced the Blueboyand Arthur varieties of wheat last year, discussed his experiences with these new varieties. Both varieties produced approximately 67 to 68 bushels per acre; however, the Arthur wheat had a much higher test weight than did the Blueboy.

W. L. Conner, Parma, told those in attendance how grain storage had paid good dividends on his farm. He installed grain storage, drying, and handling facilities at a cost of approximately 60 cents per bushel of storage capacity. These facilities allowed him to sell corn at prices 25 to 30 cents per bushel over harvest time prices. They facilitated earlier harvest which enabled him to cut down on field losses of corn. In addition, he saved time by not having to wait in line at the grain elevator during the busy harvest season.

John Yount, extension farm management agent who has, with the cooperation of the farmers involved, kept records of irrigation costs on four Stoddard County farms involving the use of both automatic sprinkler and surface types of irrigation. Although costs were considerably different in some respects, costs per acre were comparable.

John Garrett, extension area soils agent who is in charge of the Area Soil Laboratory at the University of Missouri Delta Center at Portageville, discussed improvements being made in the soil laboratory and benefits from these imprvements to be gained by local farmers. Major improvements are being made which will not only improve tests for elements presently being tested for but will add zinc to the elements being tested for. This will be especially important for land being levelled to grade, as zinc deficiencies are being found in numerous cases where land has been elvelled. He also discussed plant tissue testing and how it can be used to help diagnose problems in problem fields.

Joe Scott, extension agronomist, also from the Delta Center at Portageville, discussed recommended crop production practices for this area. He outlined recommendations of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture pertaining to crop varieties and chemical weed control and presented experimental results and showed colored slides to illustrate results which might be expected from the use of such practices.

Hubert Swinger, chairman of the county soils and crops conference committee, was in charge of the program.

Wheat Stockpile Hits 6-Year High

WASHINGTON (AP) — There were 1.527 billion bushels of wheat stockpiled in the United States on Jan. 1, the most since 1964, says the Agriculture Department.

The huge supply — enough to meet domestic requirements for more than two years—was a result of lagging exports and bumper crops the past three years.

Crop Reporting Board officials said Thursday the Jan. 1 total was 13 per cent more than a year earlier. Wheat stored on farms totaled a record 608 million bushels, nearly 5 per cent more than on Jan. 1, 1969.

Wheat stored in off-farm warehouses totaled 919 million bushels, 20 per cent more than a year earlier and the most for that date in four years, the report said.

Exports during the year ended last June 30 dropped to 544 million bushels, the smallest total in a decade. Department experts have predicted a slight improvement during the 1969-70 marketing year to an export total of around 600 million bushels.

February Deadline for Farmers

ST. LOUIS — Farmers have until Feb. 2 to report Social Security taxes withheld from their employees' wages during 1969, E. P. Trainor, District Director for Missouri, said today.

The reports should be filed on Form 943, Employer's Annual Tax Return for Agricultural Employees.

Mr. Trainor said that any farmer who pays an employee cash wages of $150 or more a year must withhold Social Security taxes. These taxes must also be withheld on wages under $150 for any person hired 20 days or more a year.

For tax purposes, a farm employer includes anyone who furnishes and pays workers to perform agricultural labor on his behalf or for someone else. Mr. Trainor said a "crew leader" is an employer under this definition.

The 1969 Social Security tax rate is 9.6 per cent of the first $7,800 of taxable wages paid a farm employee. Half the tax is paid by the farmer and the other half by the employee.

Farmers must give a W-2 wage and tax statement to every worker they pay $600 or more a year. Employees paid less than $600 should receive a statement covering their Social Security taxes, Mr. Trainor said.

More detailed information is available in IRS Publication 51," Agricultural Employer's Social Security Tax Guide." Send a post card to Internal Revenue Service, P. O. Box 1740, Plaza Station, St. Louis, Missouri 63199.

Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Bennett

Couple in Business 40 Years in Bloomfield

BLOOMFIELD — Jessie and Hallie Bennett completed 40 years in business in Bloomfield, Jan. 11. The first business venture was opened on the court house square, in what is now the Western Auto Building.

The name given to the new business was Bennett's Fred Cream Company.

Soon the new business expanded by the installation of incubators and the sale of baby chicks became a dominant activity for some time. Hallie relates that the incubators were heated by kerosene lamps or minature heating units. These heating units reuqired constant care and supervision and the eggs were turned daily by hand, Jesse and Hallie set up housekeeping in one side of the building for the purpose of looking after the business.

Next the Bennetts added retail groceries, bought and sold poultry, and various farm products. Success in these several ventures gave these young merchants confidence and they purchased the warehouse located west of the Buck Store Building; additional incubators, incorporating labor saving devices developed by Jesse for turning the eggs automatically and for regulating the electric heating units authomatically, were installed in the new building and Bennett Cream and Feed Store became the largest producer and distributor of baby chicks within the entire area and Jesse and Hallie were well established in the business community.

Another expansion occurred with the purchase of the old livery stable lot, being the lot where Bennett Wholesale Company and Don's Bi-Rite are now located. After refurbishing the large livery stable building, the Bennett wholesale Company was organized; soon this company operated numerous delivery vans and trucks over Southeast Missouri.

Jesse continued to be interested in poultry production; this interest resulted in his travels over the country to observe the development of volume production of broiler chickens; s having convinced himself that he could improve on the methods then followed, he supervised the construction of broiler houses; this broiler production was an instant success. Their business now is a complete farm operation.

Graham of Sikeston as the resident engineer in active charge of both improvements.

Aliens Must Register

KANSAS CITY — H. I. Major, district director of the United States immigration and naturalization service, said that all aliens residing in the United States must report their addresses during January.

The cards may be obtained at any post office or immigration service office. Parents or legal guardians of alien children under 14 years of age are required to complete the report for them.

Any alien who is ill or disabled may have a friend or relative obtain the card for them and return it to the clerk after it has been completed and signed by the alien. Under no conditions may the card be mailed or merely dropped in a mail box. It must be returned to the clerk in he post office. Only diplomats and persons accredited to certain international organizations are exempt from this requirement.

The deadline for filing is January 31st. After that date, the Post Offices cannot furnish the cards and it will be necessary for aliens who re tady to obtain them directly from the Immigration Service and explain the reason why they were not completed on time.

THIS CONTEMPORARY one-and-a-half story version of the Cape Cod cottage provides for as many as six bedrooms with all rooms directly accessible from a central entry foyer. The large living room is at the center of the house and its brick corner fireplace and glass areas add to the homespun atmosphere. The country-size kitchen-family room with a sloping wood plank ceiling and clerestory windows evokes the bustling activity centers of the Colonial era. Plan HA616P, with 1,520 square feet of living space on the main level and 785 square feet on the upper level, was designed by Architect Samuel Paul, 89-30 161st St., Jamaica, N.Y.

After 42 Years of Failure He Still Hopes To Strike it Rich

By LEE BYRD
Associated Press Writer

BIG COTTONWOOD CANYON, Utah (AP) — For 42 years he's been here — an old man now — using the same crude cabin, tramping his trails and chipping his tunnel ever deeper in resolute hope of striking it rich.

By almost any standard, Roy Newman, 76, has endured the unendurable, suffered the insufferable. Forty-two years of failure. No silver, no zinc, no lead.

Nature toughens the task. Winter comes early and leaves late on these craggy, Alpine-like slopes. Only 10 miles down the canyon is the Salt Lake Valley, the big city and warmth. Newman stays.

Already the snow is 18 inches deep, and the hazy-gray shroud which brings it lingers longer each day, litterally trapped by the mountain walls. And it gets colder.

Newman has begun the methodical, repetitive chore of stomp-stomping down the quarter mile paths which connect his cabin with the mine and the road. If he lets the snow build up too much, he could become lost.

Deputy Sheriff Verl W. Buxton recalls many a time when he spotted Newman out tramping when the snow was eight feet high. Still, he always found time to work the tunnel daily with his rockhammer.

Forty-two years of chipping away at that tunnel, now 2,000 feet long. Beautifully done, too. Just the right degree of slope for perfect water runoff. Still, nothing to show for it.

But Roy Newman is a happy man. "I have a goal," he says with a smile. "Anticipation is greater than realization." The smile never fades.

A gentle man. "Never says a bad word about anyone," says Buxton. No hatred or bitterness because his cabin has been ransacked by vandals many times over the years, usually while he was in the tunnel.

Not even when, recently, someone — perhaps deer hunters — riddled the door with bullets, then blew up Newman's 42-year-old wood stove with his own gunpowder.

Buxton and other deputies learned about that and got Newman a new stove, lugging it 500 yards through the snow. It took all night. Newman was so pleased.

A determined man. "I've got a lot of faith in this country," he says, even with 42 years of no luck. He had two years of geology in college. Other geologists say, perhaps. Just perhaps.

Newman went to the mountainside and built his cabin in early 1928. A year later he got close, too close to a dynamite blast.

Roy Newman has been blind ever since.

HE'S ENDURED the unendurable, suffered the unsufferable, but after 42 years of failure, Roy Newman, 76 and blind, is still determined to strike-it-rich.
